Students today face challenges

As problems of the world creep into the community and school, concerned students and faculty examine conditions surrounding them.

Suffering from an overcrowded school, Warriors work together to update curriculum, to prevent senseless destruction, and to ward off apathy.

As the community unfolds to eager students, they see not only the parks and recreation but also poor housing and drug abuse. But with willing spirits, youths face the challenge of making tomorrow a place in which we want to live.

Working together, sponsor Mrs. Virginia Johnson and Anita Conklyn sell books at the ICC Carnival. Babysitting, Linda Watson helps a youngster jelly his toast.

Youths explore challenge of life

As changing times necessitate changing attitudes, Warriors plunge into vital activity. Whether learning the needs of children through babysitting or working with youngsters in a Sesame Street program, youths tackle the challenge of life.

Learning from one another, teachers and students combine energies to shed seeds of understanding that open the door for change.

Climbing, volunteer fireman Danny Beau drills for competition. Exploring area beaches, Gaye Beaty helps children from the Sesame Street program gather seashells.

Learning techniques of portraying commedia characters, Karl Madley and Anna Mae Gifford explore the world of drama. Smiling faces reflect the times. Creating, Betsi Sedwick utilizes her talents through oil painting.

Youths express optimistic views

Happy faces, peace signs, and faded jeans depict the times. Charged with optimism, youths challenge the world to be different. As they tackle a script or conceive a painting, Warriors search the past to find answers for the present.

Each gesture, each commitment represent the excitement generated by change. No longer content to "wait until tomorrow," individuals seek answers today so there will be hope for tomorrow.

Clad in the outfit of her times, Dawn Williamson works at the ICC Carnival. Hung in effigy, a Hampton crabber goes down defeated among Warriors.

Hidden motives spark creativity

Anxious to escape the rigors of school life, students and teachers unleashed hidden talents to embark on creative ventures. Drawn by the desire to project personalities, individuals worked to break the monotony of daily doldrums.

Capturing the spirit of change, students and faculty joined hands to work on group projects. As stages were set, cafeterias decorated, and melodies blended, each individual gleaned experience and knowledge from another to create a unified whole.

Class of '74 greeted at orientation

Opening the doors of Kecoughtan, Warriors welcomed sophomores by presenting a series of skits. Seen through the eyes of the upperclassmen, the skits depicted the twelve years of school.

Riding a bicycle across stage, seniors Cindy Little and Joe DeInnocentes characterized the annual Homecoming Parade. Caricaturing head football coach Mr. Ben Rich, Jim Lanham indicated exactly who was the captain. After being introduced by Mr. Harry B. Dyche, Jr., Mr. Ben Rich, Mr. Dave Dwyer, and Mrs. Shirley Booth welcomed new students. They outlined the sports and academic programs offered at KHS. Information on extracurricular activities and student conduct was given by SCA President Mike Goodwin.

Encouraging school spirit, cheerleaders led new Warriors in cheers before their first day at KHS.

Keeping the beat, Linda Rowe echoes the spirit of the band's performance of "The Horse." Marching across stage, Warriors pave the way for new braves.

Imitating football coach, Ben Rich, Jim Lanham points to his hat to show who is boss. Welcoming students, Maureen Lucey, head cheerleader, introduces "Battle Cry Warriors." Portraying the bird with the whooping cough, Mike Goodwin and Doug Beason sing of its ailment.

Expressing the Warrior spirit, homeroom E-1 wins the door decorating contest with their illustration of Warrior holding a steamed crab. Blazing, the bonfire burns as the onlooking crowd creates spirit for the Hampton-Kecoughtan game. Grieving, Debbie Weaver, Debbie Fitzgerald, Mary Ann Rametta, and Tina Brenner mourn for the Hampton Crabbers in the funeral procession during lunch.

'71 Indian Week generates spirit

Undaunted by rains caused by hurricane Ginger, Warriors upheld their spirit throughout Indian Week, September 26 to October 1.

Spearheaded by the SCA, students collected boxes for the bonfire that was eventually postponed until Monday, October 4. Even after rival Crabbers set the bonfire ablaze prematurely, Warriors rallied to collect enough boxes for the event.

Throughout the week students decorated doors to depict a Crabber downfall, males vied for the coveted Miss Gorgeous Green and White title, and females, draped in black, mourned the defeat of arch rival Hampton.

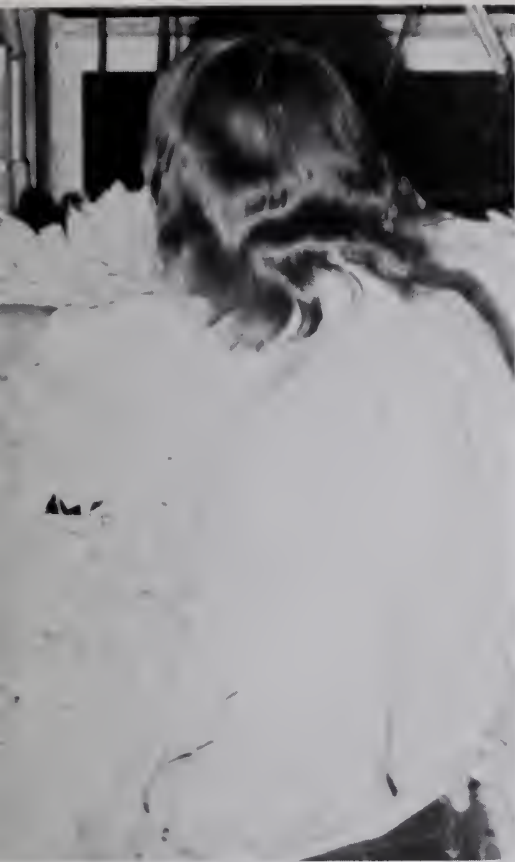

Bustling activity, which had begun with a field day on Sunday, September 26, came to an end when Hampton defeated Kecoughtan, 37-0, at Darling Stadium on Monday night, October 4.

Greasing a pig, Doug Beason and Walter Lemaster prepare the pig for the race. Beaming, contestant Paris Zambas displays his beauty in competition for the title of Miss Gorgeous Green and White.

Joan Fuller reigns as KHS queen; rain drenches 1971 Homecoming

Although drenching rains hampered Homecoming festivities Saturday, October 23, Warrior spirit prevailed throughout the weekend.

Floats, prepared in backyards and garages, carried out the theme "Warriors on the Warpath." Wilted by the rains, floats were driven through downtown Hampton to the site of the Homecoming battle with York. Within the last minutes of the game, the Falcons kicked an unexpected field goal and defeated KHS 3-0.

During half time, float winners and the Homecoming Court were announced. Juniors placed first in float competition, with seniors ranking second and Key Club third.

Senior Joan Fuller reigned as the 1971 Homecoming Queen, while Sheila Gibson and Louise Griffin served as senior attendants. Junior attendants, Denise Blotzer and Kim Dillard, and sophomore attendants, Suzanne Johnson and Phyllis Copeland, concluded the court.

Decorated with black lights, posters, scattered pillows, and mirrors, the KHS cafeteria was the site of the annual Homecoming Dance. Amid the setting of "Psychedelic Shack," the queen and her court were again presented.

Children's plays portray fantasy

Opening their fall season, the Garrick Circle Players presented three children's one acts. "Birthday of the Infanta," adapted by Mr. Thomas Miller from an Oscar Wilde short story, concerned a dwarf's self-realization and the discrimination shown him. Donnie Robinson characterized the dwarf while Mary Goode portrayed the Infanta.

Written by James Thurber and adapted by Mr. Miller, "The Wonderful O" was directed by alumnus Ray Williamson. Because his mother was once stuck in a porthole, Black, Karl Madley, hated the letter O. However, by the play's end he recognized the significance of the letter O.

"The Mad Hatter's Tea Party," directed by junior Donnie Robinson, concluded the series of plays. Ray Williamson portrayed the Mad Hatter in his attempt to entertain Alice, Mary Goode, in the world of Wonderland.

Startled by his discovery of the treasure map, Black, Karl Madley, realizes where to look for the jewels. Savoring the taste, Mad Hatter, Ray Williamson, sips tea at "The Mad Hatter's Tea Party."

'Toys for Tots' campaign garners money, games for needy children

As Warriors hurried to buy Christmas gifts for family and friends, they did not forget less fortunate members of the community. Contributing over $275 of toys and money to the KHS "Toys for Tots" campaign, students helped to bring the joys of Santa to the eyes of children.

Choruses, directed by Mrs. Lucile Sutterer, joined voices to sing a medley of Christmas songs to Warriors anxiously awaiting the close of school on Friday, December 17. Mrs. Pat Wetmore, English teacher, highlighted the assembly with her presentation of "Jesu Bambino."

In a cafeteria bedecked with mistletoe and holly, Keyette and Key Club members united efforts for the annual "Mistletoe and Holly Ball." Featured musicians for the occasion were the "Ben Rush."

Taking a teaching break, Coach John Ivy savors Christmas goodies at the brunch sponsored by DECA. Directing the Girls' Chorus, Mrs. Lucile Sutterer leads members in a medley of yuletide songs.

Delivering toys, Alix Grimm and Bob Sullivan join in the Christmas spirit of giving. Reaching a high note, Mrs. Pat Wetmore sings "Jesu Bambino" in the chorus assembly. Enjoying the mood of the Mistletoe and Holly Ball, John Hughes and Susan Ferguson converse while awaiting the next dance.

Addressing sophomores and juniors, Colleen Gibson delivers a speech as she runs for secretary of the SCA. Microphone in hand, Seaman Garrett prepares to sing a ballad during the United States Navy Show Band concert. Playing the tambourine, "Pilgrim Twenty" lead singer vocalizes a rock number.

Special assemblies spark interest

Throughout the year, special assemblies were scheduled for the students of KHS. First of these was a performance by the United States Navy Show Band. Playing jazz, rock, and dance band selections, they entertained the audience with their song and dance routines. Traveling from Little Creek, Virginia, they were sponsored by the SCA and the KHS band. Attempting to promote their evening performances, another rock group, "Pilgrim Twenty," appeared in the KHS auditorium for a preliminary concert during the school day.

As spring came, rising juniors and seniors began to campaign for SCA offices for the following year. An assembly was held to introduce those candidates and to listen as they informed their peers of their individual capabilities.

Honoring those students who had been selected by their classmates as members of the Hall of Fame, an assembly was presented exclusively for seniors. Skits were performed prior to the announcements of the winner of each category.

Offering a variety of entertainment for students and faculty, the assemblies were presented as an attempt to break the monotony of everyday classroom work and to promote student interest.

Carrying Melanie Rhoades across stage, Bob Sullivan performs in a Hall of Fame skit. Acting the part of a small child, Linda Rowe stamps her foot during a skit.

Miller entertains classes, judges

Recitations, pop-singing, ballet, piano compositions, and an art display offered a diversified program in the 1972 Miss KHS Pageant emceed by Mr. Jerome Sanford.

Judged on the basis of talent, poise, and personal appearance, eight Kecoughtan girls competed for the coveted title of Miss KHS on the evening of February 12.

Performing original lyrics to the "Delfonic's Theme" and ranking high during the question-answer session, Cynthia Miller captured the title of Miss KHS. She was crowned by former Miss KHS, Debbie Wagner.

Winning the first runner-up position, Coral Dotson, clad in a midi, vocalized her interpretation of the song "Mother."

Second runner-up, Carla Weih, performed an interpretive dance incorporating gymnastic movements.

During intermission Raoul Fauntleroy and Joe Wilson entertained the audience with piano and organ music.

Hearing her name announced as Miss KHS, Cynthia Miller tearfully awaits her crown and roses. Playing a medley of popular tunes, Raoul Fauntleroy entertains the audience during intermission.

Parading before the judges, Wendy Gailing displays her evening gown. Examining the raffle ticket, D. J. Janosik prepares to give the television to winner, Dale Gwaltney, while Debbie Wagner and Brian Gordon look on. Attentively watching master of ceremonies, Mr. Jerome Sanford, finalists Carla Weih, Cynthia Miller, and Coral Dotson await their individual question.

Lawsons snare winning places

With a Gay Nineties theme, the 1972 Junior Class Talent Show, held Friday, March 4, featured Can-Can girls, a barber shop quartet, and various skits. During intermission, between acts, and during the judges' decision period, junior class members provided entertainment portraying the spirit of the 1890's.

Capturing a first prize of $15, Ali Lawson performed the first movement of Mozart's concerto for clarinet.

Interpreting the first movement of Mozart's concerto for flute, Kemal Lawson was awarded a second place of $10.

Varying the mood, Liz Tredennick, Mary Lowe, and Carol Higgins vocalized a popular rock tune, "Ohio," and won a third prize of $5.

Over $300 profit from the talent show aided in the financing of the annual junior ring dance.

Reciting a scene from "My Fair Lady," Senior Nina Green displays her acting ability at the Junior Class Talent Show. Performing an excerpt from a Mozart concerto, Ali Lawson plays the clarinet. Displaying ability on the flute, Kemal Lawson interprets a movement from a Mozart classic.

Karen Robbins selected queen for basketball homecoming festivities

Climaxing the 1972 Basketball Homecoming, Kecoughtan defeated previously unbeaten Warwick, 71-62, Friday, February 4.

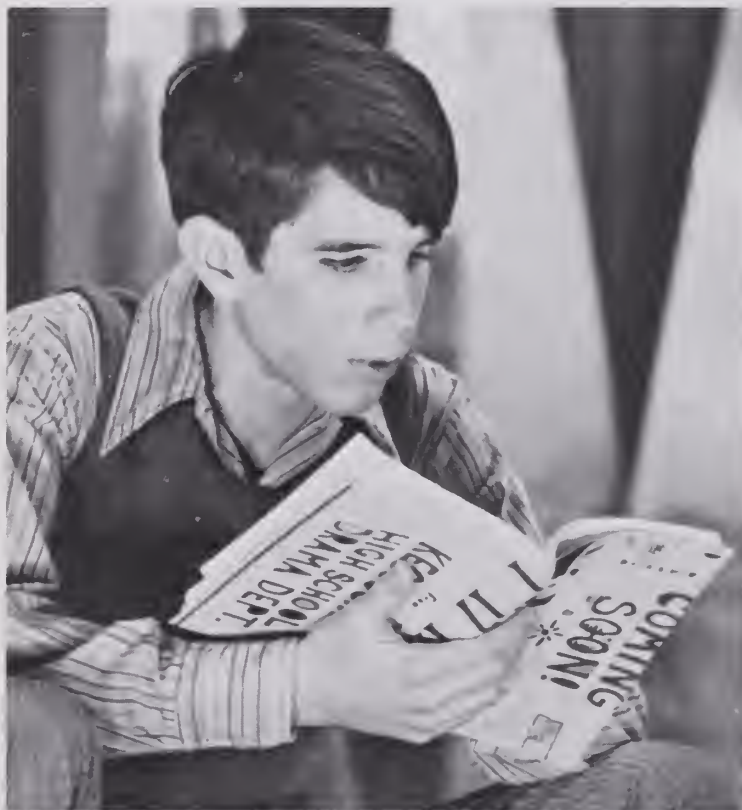

Elected by the basketball team, Queen Karen Robbins reigned with her court at the game and throughout the evening. Presented during half time, Barbara Seitz was announced as senior attendant with Terrie Hale and Beth Williamson as junior and sophomore attendants, respectively. Breaking from the tradition, each attendant chose her own escort.

Karen received a rose bouquet upon her presentation and each of her attendants were given a charm.

Sponsored by the SCA, a homecoming dance hosted KHS students in the cafeteria following the game. "Bob Marshall and the Crystals" provided soul music until twelve o'clock. After subtracting funds for gifts and the band, the SCA made a profit of $175 on the dance.

Shutting out the world, Schroeder, characterized by David Scott, composes a melody. Before examining his empty mailbox, Charlie Brown, Raoul Fauntleroy, delights over the valentines of Patty, Yvette Williams. Struggling with his homework, Linus, Donnie Robinson, ponders over a hundred-word essay on "Peter Rabbit."

Cartoon figures characterize life

Performing the contemporary musical You're a Good Man Charlie Brown, Kecoughtan's Garrick Circle Players exemplified life as seen through a child's eyes. Under the direction of Mr. Thomas Miller and assisted by Mr. Robert Anderson, the cartoon characters of Charles M. Schultz were accompanied in song by members of Kecoughtan's High School Band.

Torn between the Red Baron and his supper dish, Snoopy, Kathy Painter, danced and howled in the moonlight. Jeanne Jones, as big-mouth Lucy, opened the window of her psychiatric booth announcing "the doctor is 'in.'" With Schroeder, David Scott, rendering Beethoven, Lucy, deep in thought, lounged against his piano. As Charlie Brown, Raoul Fauntleroy, held out a pink valentine to Patty, Yvette Williams, he embarrassingly blurted out "Merry Christmas, Patty!"

Concluding the play, the cast united to declare "happiness is anyone and anything at all that is loved by you."

Focusing attention on his relationship with the other characters, Snoopy, portrayed by Kathy Painter, sings "Not Bad, Not Bad at All." Surrounded by giant Schultz caricatures, Charlie Brown, Raoul Fauntleroy, consults Lucy, the psychiatrist, who was portrayed by Jeanne Jones.

Awaiting their marriage ceremony, Lysander, Joe Gunter, tells Hermia, Mary Goode, of his love for her. Acting as court jester, Dave Tripp introduces the wedding couples. Under the influence of the flower juice, Titania, Jeanne Jones, falls in love with the first one she meets, a donkey, characterized by Raoul Fauntleroy.

Shakespearean fantasy produced utilizing modern stage techniques

Brought to life in a contemporary manner, A Midsummer Night's Dream blended the Elizabethan with the modern.

Neither realistic nor tragic, the play portrayed an entertaining fantasy. Creating a modernistic mood, a mirror ball and sparkler lights flashed throughout the scenes.

As the play opened, Theseus, portrayed by Mike Goodwin, proclaimed his marriage to the queen of the Amazons, Hippolyta, characterized by Martha Leas.

But all Athenians were not happy. Hermia, Mary Goode, trapped by her father's dislike of Lysander, Joe Gunter, fled into the forest with her beloved. Hearing of their plot, Helena, Alix Grimm, and Demetrius, Mike Kinzie, followed them into the woods. As the fairies squeezed flower juice into the sleeping gentlemen, they awakened in love with women who had first loved them. With the blessing of the royal house by the fairies, all was well again in Athens.

Listening for her cue in the play, guildsman Pam Mitchell is aided by a hearing device. Attending the wedding ceremony, Theseus, Mike Goodwin, and Hippolyta, Martha Leas, comment on the play presented by the guildsmen.

Acting as a guard in "Dark Lady of the Sonnets," Steve Whitney protects Elizabeth I. Upon Shakespeare's marriage proposal, Elizabeth I, Jeanne Jones, appears astonished. Addressing Elizabeth, Shakespeare, portrayed by Alex Olsovsky, explains his point of view.

Dramatists present Shaw's satire

Competing against all other peninsula schools, KHS drama students participated in the Invitational One Acts. Under the direction of Mr. Thomas Miller, they received an "excellent" rating for their performance of "Dark Lady of the Sonnets," a satire written by George Bernard Shaw.

Ridiculing the method in which Shakespeare wrote his plays, Shaw satirized Shakespeare's supposed originality. As Shakespeare, characterized by Alex Olsovsky, heard a phrase which struck his fancy, he copied it in a notebook for future reference.

Also dealing with his relationship with Queen Elizabeth I, portrayed by Jeanne Jones, the play depicted Shakespeare as a social climber and the queen as a vamp.

Sponsored by the Virginia High School League, the district competition was held in Williamsburg at William and Mary in March.

Touring groups perform at KHS

Sponsored by the KHS Drama Club the International Thespian Society presented the Alpha-Omega Players from Dallas, Texas, and their production of "The Diary of Adam and Eve" and "The World of Carl Sandburg." Written by Mark Twain, "The Diary of Adam and Eve" was a humorous adaptation of Adam and Eve's adventures in the forest. Dedicated in the memory of Carl Sandburg, "The World of Carl Sandburg" presented the songs and poems of this modern American artist.

Introducing the musical accomplishments of the Black man during the 1960's, George Tipton and Lorice Stevens performed folk ballads and blues from that era in "Passin' Through," a program relating to Black culture.

Harmonizing in a folk ballad, George Tipton and Lorice Stevens perform in "Passin' Through." Tempting Eve with an apple, the snake, T.C. Stoner, urges her to bite into it. Carrying a fish, Adam, portrayed by Cliff Samuelson, presents Eve, Brenda Stoner, with a gift.

Leaping for a basket, Coach David Dwyer participates in a basketball game at Sophomore Co-Rec Night. Snapping to the beat, Michael Sanders dances to the music of "The Modtones."

Sophomores join ranks to present annual Co-Rec Night game, dance

Joining forces of 800 students, the Class of '74 held its annual Sophomore Co-Rec Night March 17 at Kecoughtan High School.

Heading the event, co-chairmen H. H. Guthmiller and Dale Gwaltney arranged a basketball game and dance from student suggestions.

Beginning festivities at 6:30 p.m., KHS coaches opposed area junior high coaches during a basketball game in the gym. After the game, students danced to the music of "The Modtones" in Kecoughtan's cafeteria until 11:30 p.m.

Even though KHS coaches were defeated and the band arrived late, sophomores retained their spirit and collected a profit of $210.

'72 ICC Carnival breaks tradition

Breaking with tradition, the 1972 ICC Carnival was held out of doors for the first time Saturday, April 29, from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

As little children dunked for apples, local bands blared forth rock music in the background. Providing food, drink, entertainment, and prizes, approximately fifteen organizations participated in the events.

Organized by Doug Beason, the ICC Carnival enabled clubs to raise money for future projects and entertained area children with games and music.

Singing out, Leon Parker performs various rock numbers during the ICC Carnival. Cooking hotdogs, Key Clubbers, Dale Holcomb, Russ Colthorpe, Mike Cloyd, and Rochie Tschirhart, operate a hotdog stand for the carnival crowd. Working in unison, two area children aim for a shot during the basketball-throw sponsored by the senior class.

Clad in mini-dress and wig, Mr. Thomas Miller pantomimes the song "Hair" as Miss Jerry Farinholt looks on. Announcing the next act, Mr. Donald Taylor emcees "Vaudeville Vamps." Characterizing a hillbilly, Mrs. Mary Anna Lair picks the banjo during "Faculty Frolics."

KHS faculty reveals hidden talent through 'Vaudeville Vamps' theme

Portraying "Vaudeville Vamps," the 1971-72 faculty presented its fourth annual "Faculty Frolics." Various skits, routines, dances, and jokes recalled the vaudeville theme as applied to our here and now society.

Clutching one another, faculty members caricatured love-making in the halls at KHS. Emcee Don Taylor, garbed in bedraggled clothes, portrayed a "dirty old man." Alone, he sought company in a local massage parlor, only to find Miss Nancy Spain, a black-belt karate expert, as the masseuse. Other skits included pantomimes to current songs such as "Guitarzan" and "Hair."

Facing a more serious side of vaudeville, "The Girls of Aphrodite," KHS gymnastic team, interpreted exercises on the balance beam, parallel bars, and the horse. Backed by popular music themes, other gymnasts performed floor exercises. Portraying a more tranquil mood, Miss Nell Stewart vocalized a medley of Al Jolson tunes.

Remaining vaudeville scenes included Dentoni's magic act, performed by Coach Buddy Denton; Houdini's escape act, characterized by Mr. Leonard Thomas; and "Little Egypt and Her Harem Cuties," played by Miss Jerry Farinholt and other female faculty members.

Proceeds from "Faculty Frolics" went towards a scholarship fund for KHS seniors and the transportation of two juniors to Boys' and Girls' State.

Reaching out to the audience, Miss Nell Stewart belts out a medley of Al Jolson tunes. Stepping in unison, the "Faculty Frolics" cast performs a finale to the show. Clutching little brown jugs, Mrs. Nan Jordan and Mrs. Elizabeth Porter sing "Mountain Dew."

Juniors decorate annex, cafeteria as 'Enchanted Gardens' for dance

With the theme "Enchanted Gardens," juniors held their 1972 Ring Dance April 22, in the Kecoughtan Annex.

Amid floral decorations, juniors danced to the music of "Ben Rush." Pausing for relaxation, dancers retired to the cafeteria for punch, cake, and quieter surroundings.

During a break, co-chairmen Steve Parker and Chris Nelson were presented with gifts for their organizing efforts. Also, class sponsors Mrs. Linda Hooper and Mrs. Linda Reubush accepted bouquets of roses from the class. Dance committee chairmen received silver cups for their work.

Climaxing the evening, juniors participated in the Ring Ceremony at 11 o'clock. Each junior, announced with his date, placed his ring on his finger and paraded through the floral arch to the song, "We've Only Just Begun."

'72 Senior Prom top social event

Congregating at the Rodef Sholem Temple, seniors danced to the music of "Black and Blue" during their prom, May 13. Following weeks of anticipation, couples arrived at 9:30 p.m. to begin the evening.

Highlighting the event, King Bobby Routten and Queen Nancy Teagle were presented to the crowd. During the ceremony Nancy received a rose bouquet and Bobby was given a gift. Also, each attendant was announced and given a single rose.

Surrounded by a blue and gold color scheme, couples enjoyed the lively atmosphere until 1 a.m.

KHS recognizes students' worth

To reward outstanding academic achievements, the Awards Assembly was held May 24. Congregated in the gymnasium, students listened to faculty speakers and observed the presentation of numerous awards.

Recognizing accomplished individuals, representatives from the fields of English, math, history, foreign languages, arts, and sciences presented awards. Staff members from the publications were also recognized at this time.

Financed by profits from "Faculty Frolics," faculty scholarships were granted to Vern Williams and Mike Goodwin. Recipients of the DAR Good Citizenship Award, Katie Bartley and Joe Paquette, accepted the honor from Mr. Harry B. Dyche, Jr. Other special awards presented included seven Army and Navy scholarships.

Concluding the assembly, Mr. Dyche announced the winner of the 1972 Bow and Arrow Award. Selected by KHS faculty members, Miss Donna Price accepted the honor.

Presenting a gift, A Cappella Choir members Jane Andrews and Joe Wilson reward their director in behalf of the choir. Congratulating senior Michael Filliman, Mrs. Debra Hudnall presents a dictionary of chemistry and physics for outstanding achievement in the scientific field.

Committee designates 15 juniors as delegates to Boys', Girls' State

Giving high school students experience in government, the American Legion sponsored its annual Boys' and Girls' State Conventions in Virginia. Selected on the basis of character, cooperativeness, scholarship, honesty, and leadership qualities, 15 Kecoughtan students attended the workshops during the week June 11-17.

Chosen by a committee of faculty members, KHS delegates met with participants from other peninsula schools to discuss the convention and to hear former delegates speak. Representing Kecoughtan at Boys' and Girls' State, eight boys and seven girls observed the program and received a list of regulations for the week. Mr. Thomas Gear, former State Commander of the American Legion, announced that Boys' State would be held at William and Mary College and that girls would attend Radford College for their convention.

Adopting the traditional theme "learning by doing," delegates campaigned and elected city and state officials at the workshop.

Boys' State—Front Row: Gery Doughty, Bill Seels, Von Roberts, C. T. Mersh. Second Row: Tommy Dunn, Rick Schwartzmen, Mike Kinzie.

Holdren, Collins elected to speak

Representing the Class of '72, Mac Collins and John Holdren were selected as spokesmen for graduation. Rather than have the traditional valedictorian and salutatorian, the top twenty-six seniors elected two speakers.

Nominated by fellow students and reviewed by a faculty committee, Katie Bartley and Joe Paquette received the DAR Good Citizenship Award. Sponsored by the Francis Mallory Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, this award was given to two seniors who displayed qualities of good citizenship, honesty, and dependability.

Awards presented at Class Night recognize achievement, activities

Changing tradition, seniors presented Class Night in a new way. Exemplifying the idea of Academy Awards, the Class of '72 titled their program "The 19th Annual Kecoughtan Academy of High School Arts and Sciences."

Emceed by John Holdren, class night revealed highlights of past events with slides. Taking seniors from the summer of '68 through their senior year, Mac Collins explained class activities and recognized contributions of graduating Warriors.

Uniting on stage, cast members sang the class song "You've Got A Friend" and recited the class motto.

Showing appreciation for three years at Kecoughtan, Lisa Williams announced the gift of baseball dugouts in behalf of the class. Coach Buddy Denton accepted the gift for the athletic department.

After a brief intermission and a procession of graduating seniors, awards were presented. Class keys were given to seniors for their contributions, and Mrs. Kathryn Dicus announced the eleven recipients of the Outstanding Senior Awards.

Terminating the program, class president, Jim Lanham, addressed seniors. Challenging each class member, he emphasized the importance of finding happiness through self.

Reflecting on past events, Jim Lanham accepts his outstanding senior gift from John Holdren. Shining a flashlight, Mac Collins reads the class history during a presentation of slides as members of the class look on. Reaching for the microphone, emcee John Holdren continues Class Night after Gary Douglas' impersonation of Woody Allen. Smiling, Cindy Stinson accepts an honor graduate award from Mrs. Evelyn Moore.

Choirs combine to accent mood

Setting a religious mood, Baccalaureate united graduates from four area high schools Monday, June 5, 1972, at the Hampton Roads Coliseum. Combining voices, the A Cappella choirs sang hymns while seniors proceeded to their seats.

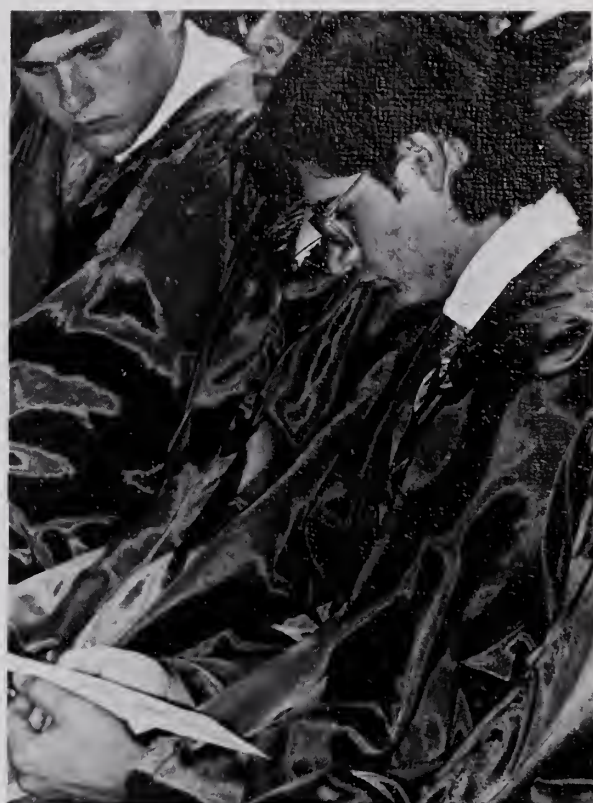

Following the processional, the Reverend Louie V. Andrews, Jr. from the Community Presbyterian Church gave the invocation. Emphasizing the importance of faith, the Reverend A. Purnell Bailey, Head of Missions of the United Methodist Church, spoke to graduates. Offering the benediction, the Reverend Charles Paige from Zion Baptist Church concluded the service.

As choirs combined voices, seniors recessed from the Coliseum.

Observing Baccalaureate services, James Wallace ponders the thought of graduation. Relaxing a moment before services, Elizabeth Sedwick watches the activity. Stressing the importance of faith, the Reverend A. Purnell Bailey addresses seniors from four area high schools.

Raising her hand to get attention, Mrs. Jane Rogers prepares to assemble the girls for Baccalaureate services. Attending the services, D. J. Janosik consults the program for the next events.

Shaking hands with Mr. Harry Dyche, Tom Polonsky receives his diploma. Diploma in hand, Sandra Maglin leaves the stage. Donning his hat, Frank Carmel readies himself for the processional.

Accomplished graduates capture honors, scholarships at ceremony

Designating the end of twelve years of study and activity, graduation was held June 10 in the Hampton Roads Coliseum.

Under direction of Mr. Fred Pendergraft, the band provided music for the processional of seniors and faculty. Once seated, the audience listened as the Reverend John B. Tate offered the invocation.

Addressing the class for the last time, Jim Lanham, class president, encouraged seniors to seek peace and happiness with themselves and the world.

Following tradition, Mr. Harry B. Dyche, Jr. announced recipients of various awards and scholarships. Selected by fellow seniors, Joan Fuller received the L. G. Balfour Key. Displaying an active part in events and a high grade average, Jim Lanham accepted the Elizabeth Cook Award.

Confronting seniors with future decisions, speaker John Holdren utilized the theme selfishness versus selflessness. Emphasizing the fact that each graduate would choose one of the ideologies, he challenged them to consider their options.

Climaxing the ceremonies, Mr. Dyche and Mr. R. Fletcher Gray awarded diplomas to 551 seniors.

Concluding ceremonies, the Reverend Seymour J. Gaines gave the benediction. Elated and proud, graduates recessed from the coliseum.

Raised to the stage by a forklift, Concetta Rendon, assisted by Marsha McAdams, reaps the applause of the audience. Discussing upcoming events, Dorian Staley and Susan Watkins relate past experiences at KHS.

Athletes plunge into competition

Challenged by difficult opponents and weathered by rigorous practice, athletes plunged into competition as eager fans cheered them in their attack.

As each individual strove for excellence, mutual goals of team members and coaches meshed in one strong bind.

Enjoying a healthy winning season, athletes found the satisfaction of achievement and the reward of victory.

Warriors establish winning record

Establishing the first winning season since 1967, the Kecoughtan High School football team ended the season with a 6-3 district record and a surprising third place conference finish.

Defeating top rated teams, Bethel, Warwick, and Menchville, the Kecoughtan gridders proved that defense was the key to their success.

Averaging .8 yards rushing and 5 yards passing, the team was led offensively by junior quarterback Alex Paraschos.

The team also received offensive support from Von Roberts and Dennis Fields, halfbacks, who averaged 4.8 yards and 7.8 yards rushing, respectively.

Defensively, the Warriors were paced by seniors Skip Grimm and Gene Jordan, who received an honorable mention to the all district team. At the end of the season John Hughes was voted to the all regional team at offensive guard by regional sports' writers.

JV's establish first winning record

Bettering any previous JV season record, the Junior Varsity Football Team, coached by Mr. John Ivy and Mr. Ray Smith, compiled a 6-2-1 district record.

Led by quarterback Rod Terry and halfback Johnny Garnett, the team's aerial attack spearheaded 12 of the team's 19 touchdowns. Ralph Sisk was the team's leading rusher while Johnny Garnett had the most pass receptions.

At the Fall Sports Banquet, David Wingfield captured the Most Valuable Lineman award, as Rod Terry was named Best Back. Johnny Garnett was honored as the Most Valuable player for the season.

Cross Country snares district title

Climaxing the season by winning the district championship, the KHS Cross Country team ended the season undefeated.

KHS harriers captured first and second places over the 2.3 mile course at the Newport News Invitational with winning times of 12:40 and 12:13.6, respectively.

In the Portsmouth Invitational, held yearly by the Portsmouth Jaycees, the team finished first with the strong running of Mac Collins and Vincent Clinton.

Mac Collins, Kecoughtan's most valuable runner, led the team in consistent first place finishes with record times of 12:06 and 12:07. He was followed by Vincent Clinton, Roger Saunders, and Neal Woodard who turned in individual record times of 12:18, 13:19, and 14:03, respectively.

Group AAA soccer added at KHS

Under the direction of Coach Reuban Salada and player-coach Paul Pishko, Kecoughtan became the first Group AAA school on the peninsula to field a soccer team.

Profits from selling candy along with funds from the school provided the team with the necessary equipment to compete with private schools in the surrounding area. Beginning with a loss to the William and Mary B team early in the season, the Warriors came back to finish the season 9-3-1, compiling the best first year team record in Kecoughtan's history.

Paul Pishko was selected as most valuable player, and John Alford snagged the most improved player award.

Preparing for the second half, Coach Reuben Salada discusses game strategy with the team. Falling to the ground, John Alford kicks the ball over an opponent.

Robinson captures first in district

Grappling in a powerful district, the Kecoughtan wrestling team compiled a 5-8 record under the guidance of mentors Mr. Bill Cawley and Mr. Revis Conrad.

Breaking school records, Mike Caison recorded the fastest pin of nineteen seconds while Perry Heil went undefeated in all his matches.

Gene Jordan set a record for the most pins in one season with eleven.

Plagued by lack of depth and numerous injuries, the team managed to place ten individuals in district competition. In the 138 pound weight class, Steve Robinson won first place in the district competition.

Trackmen place second in state

Highlighting the season by capturing second place in the state indoor meet, the Kecoughtan indoor track team battled to a 2-2 dual meet record. Led by consistent performances of veteran runners and strong individual efforts, the trackmen seized third place in the Peninsula District Meet.

Participating in the state meet, the trackmen broke school and individual records. Paul Richardson set a school record in the triple jump with a distance of 46 feet, 6¼ inches while pole vaulter Steve Thomas established a new school and individual record by clearing the pole vault bar at 13 feet 3 inches.

Stretching to clear the hurdle, Paul Richardson practices for upcoming meet against Menchville.

Warriors complete victorious year; York squelches tournament hopes

Competing in the state's most powerful district, the KHS roundballers finished with a 14-4 record and a second place conference finish under the leadership of team captain Donald Taylor.

During the season, Warriors defeated rivals Warwick, Bethel, and Menchville while breaking KHS records. Breaking the school record for the lowest points scored against, the team held Denbigh to 30 points while also setting a school record of defeating arch rival Hampton twice in one season.

Kecoughtan's defensive efforts ranked them second in a district of ten teams. Led by consistent team play, senior Donald Taylor averaged 13.7 points per game and was voted the basketball team's most valuable player.

At the end of the season, the team participated in the peninsula district tournament composed of the district's top eight teams. KHS, rated as the team to beat during the tournament, lost to York's Falcons in a game which lasted through five overtimes. This game was later proven to be the longest game in the history of the tournament and longest game of the year in the state.

Tightly guarded, Gary Doughty releases a shot during the Denbigh game. Surrounded by his Menchville opponents, junior Rocky Copley attempts a goal from the top of the key.

Tankmen snag undefeated record

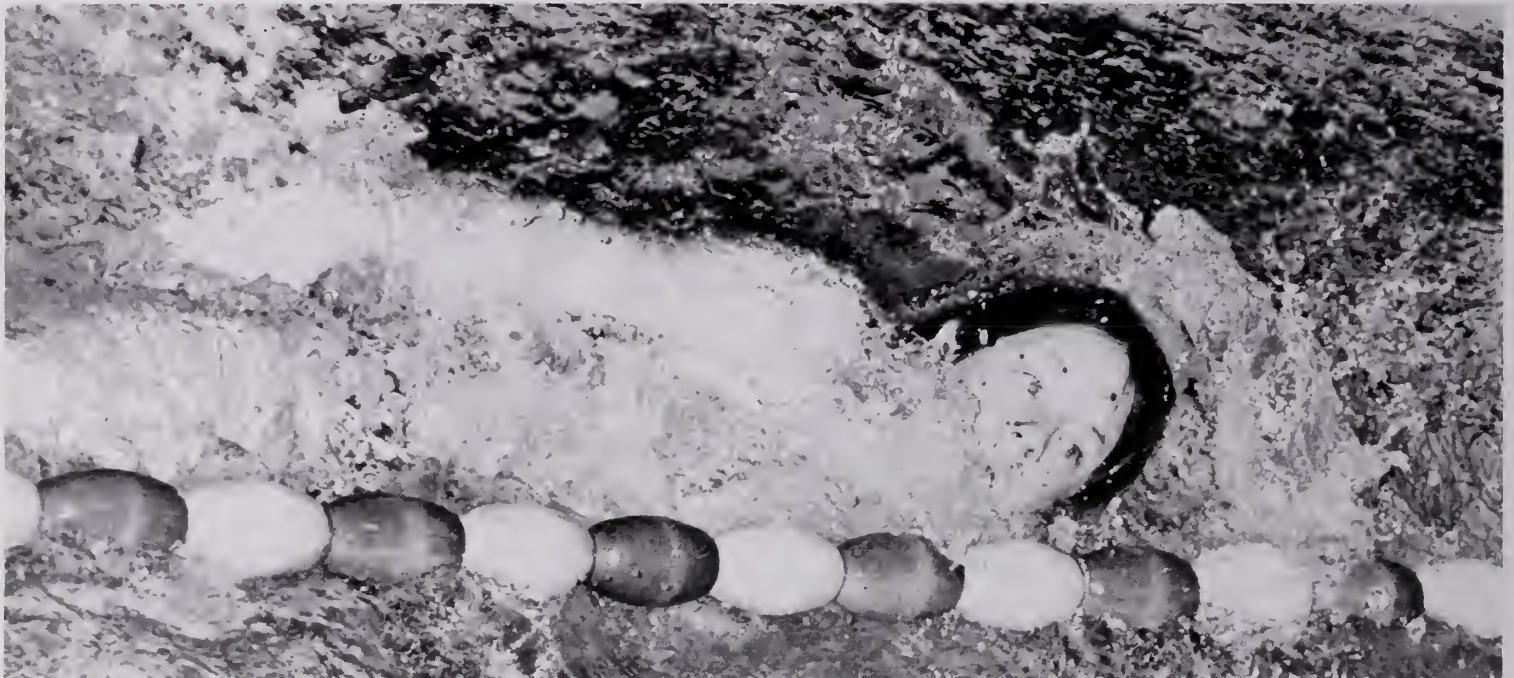

Under the direction of second year mentor Coach Steve Hochman, the Kecoughtan swim team posted a 9-0 record. With strong performances from consistent winners, the team defeated arch rivals Hampton, Maury, and Bethel to boast their best season ever.

During the season, the tankmen established new school and district records.

Doug Grant set a district record in the 50 and 100 free style with times of 28.1 seconds and 51.2 seconds, while Harvey Robinson set a new district mark in the individual medley with a clocking of 2:17.8.

Competing in the district swim meet held at the Hampton Institute pool, KHS tankmen finished a strong second under rival Hampton.

Collins, Polonsky set record times

Undefeated in dual meet competition, the KHS Spring Track Team ended another year with a 6-0 record under the guidance of Coach Herman Daniel. Consistent wins by returning lettermen enabled the team to place second in the regional competition held in Norfolk and fourth in the state meet held at Charlottesville.

During the season the team broke records in the distance medley, high hurdles, and the two mile relay with times of 10:13.8, 14.3, and 7:54.5, respectively. In the regional competition Mac Collins established a new record in the 880 yard run with a time of 1:55.2. Tom Polonsky established a new record in the state meet in the 880 yard run with a time of 1:55.4, only to finish second to an opponent from Douglas Freeman High School in Richmond.

With all but three players returning from last year's team, the KHS Tennis Team boasted a 9-1 record under the guidance of second year mentor Coach Ron MacVittie. This record placed the team second in the district behind Menchville.

During the season, Chuck Wright, number two seeded Kecoughtan player, and John Myller, number five seeded, led the team with identical 9-1 slates.

At the end of the year, the team advanced to the Regionals held in Norfolk but lost to powerful Granby 6-3 with Chuck Wright and Mike Popp qualifying for the doubles tournament.

McCabe boasts best golf average

Overcoming inexperience, the KHS Golf Team battled to a 5-5 district record under the leadership of first year mentor Coach John Ivy.

Returning lettermen led the team to victories over Pembroke, Menchville, and York with a loss to powerful Bethel by only one stroke. Mike McCabe boasted the team's best average with an 81 while golfers Chris Younger and Daryl Mason finished the year with an 86 and 83, respectively.

Placing fourth in the district, the team advanced to the regional competition only to finish fourth.

With only two returning starters, the KHS Baseball Team ended the season with a 13-5 record under the guidance of Coach Buddy Denton. Backed by one of the best defensive teams in the district, Kecoughtan pitchers Bryan Cave and Johnny Strachan held opponents to less than two runs per game.

Beginning the season with eight consecutive wins, the team failed to obtain hits during the later part of the year. With a .278 batting average, sophomore Chip Noe boasted the team's best offensive record. Seniors Johnny Strachan, Roger Overby, and Steve Robinson were selected to the all district team.

At the Spring Sports Banquet, Johnny Strachan was voted Most Valuable while Roger Overby and Bryan Cave won the Captain's Plaque and Pitcher's Award, respectively.

Students freed in club activities

Escaping daily doldrums brought on by school routine, students joined clubs and organizations to discover the world around them. As interests varied, students sought acceptance in different phases of school life.

Working for progress in the SCA, collecting clothes for needy children or helping raise funds for community service, Warriors worked together to benefit man and his environment. Through group actions and individual commitments, constructive change evolved at KHS.

Open dances boost SCA treasury

Opening dances to area students, the SCA pocketed over $500 proceeds from the door. Utilizing contemporary decorations, dance committee members attracted public attention to Warrior happenings.

Under the leadership of Mike Goodwin and the advice of sponsors Miss Donna Price and Mr. David Dwyer, the SCA collected more Thanksgiving baskets and money for the Salvation Army than any other area high school.

To provide the SCA with sufficient funds, money-making projects were conducted at the beginning of the year. Field Day netted $250.

Striving to produce effective representation, Kecoughtan's SCA drew representatives from English, history, and government classes. Recognizing the resulting confusion, the executive board held seminars to explain existing procedures.

Held despite overcast skies, the annual bonfire climaxed Indian Week. As the boxes burned, Mr. Harry B. Dyche, Jr. set Hampton's "Freddie the Crab" afire as eager Warriors cheered.

ICC reorganizes basic structure

Caught among plans for reorganization, the ICC spent many meetings in heated discussion. One constructive result of these meetings was a $25 fine for organizations having projects without previously having obtained permission. Finally accepted, the plan called for the division of all clubs and organizations into six groups with one representative from each group as opposed to one representative from each club.

Among the various projects undertaken by the ICC this year were the Homecoming Parade and the annual Spring Carnival. ICC was headed by Doug Beason with Joe Wilson serving as vice-president and Angela Reeves acting as secretary-treasurer.

IOC investigates ecological plight

Motivated by concern for the environment, members of the Independent Organizing Committee attended ecology seminars at the College of William and Mary to obtain ideas to improve the area.

Completing a project started last school year, IOC supervised the installation of sewers at a local dairy. The sewers were to correct the problem resulting from the emptying of spoiled milk into a lake.

In an attempt to prevent interference with school hours, IOC considered plans to urge TENNECO to retain shifts which would enable students to use the same buses as TENNECO employees.

Jotting down notes, Marty Brown and Gary Douglas contemplate the agenda for an upcoming IOC meeting.

NHS convention held at Warwick

Attempting to attract interested and capable students, National Honor Society accepted applications in the fall of the year.

These students, along with those accepted in the spring of the year, received their pins and were formally inducted into the society by president Craig Withers and Mr. Harry B. Dyche, Jr., principal, during ceremonies held on May 25.

In the spring of the year, seven members were delegates to the National Honor Society Convention held at Warwick High School. During this meeting, delegates discussed "The Role of National Honor Society in Today's Schools." Regional officers were elected and various methods for improving the National Honor Society were discussed.

Math tutors aid Spratley youths

Under the leadership of Joe Paquette, president, and Mrs. Charlotte Remaley, sponsor, the Math Honor Society instituted free tutorial services to students of Spratley Junior High School.

Extending its services beyond the club, Math Honor Society sponsored the National Math Test opened to all students. First and second place winners, Mike Filliman and David Grant, advanced to a national test.

To provide funds to purchase slide rules, the members of the society earned $82.50 through candy sales, paid tutoring, and a dart booth at the ICC Carnival.

Concluding the year, the society inducted new members and installed Sue Johnson as the incoming president.

Society inducts able journalists

Chosen for their outstanding contributions in the field of journalism, 34 students were inducted into Kecoughtan's Quill and Scroll chapter. Club membership was confined to eligible students participating in the newspaper, yearbook, literary magazine, and radio programs.

During the year society members were found selling ads, writing copy, designing pages, and taking and printing pictures. After gathering school news during the week, Warrior Tom-Tom members aired the program on Saturday at the WVEC radio station.

Initiates and their parents attended the installation of new members as Betsy Noe, president, welcomed them into the journalism honorary society.

Accepting her pin and card from Kathy Rexrode, secretary, Cindy Butler is inducted into the journalistic honor society.

Torch compiles creative materials

Compiling creative works written by KHS students, the Torch staff published its annual edition of the literary magazine.

Utilizing a recently introduced format, staff members concentrated on using only the best writings while including more art work and photography.

To learn contemporary methods of magazine design, editor Melanie Rhoades and staff member Leigh Seifert attended the Virginia High School League Publications Workshop in Charlottesville in the fall.

Torch, sponsor, Mrs. Evelyn Dawkins, taught a course in magazine make-up at the fall VHSL workshop. At this workshop the Torch was awarded a first place award for the 1971 magazine.

Paper reports local news, reviews

Striving to incorporate contemporary journalistic techniques in Tribal Tales, the staff, headed by Jim Lanham and Lisa Williams, experimented with different approaches in writing. Community related news subjects, music and television reviews, and sports' collages were featured in the newspaper this year.

Workshops, scheduled throughout the year, provided instruction in changing concepts for staff members. Students attended a summer program hosted by Menchville High School and a fall workshop at the University of Richmond, each offering classes in journalism.

Experimenting with newspaper magazine format, the Tribal Tales staff produced the senior issue according to this style. Varied headline forms and page layouts were utilized to fit in with the contemporary design.

Tribal Tales sponsor, Mrs. Joel Grimm, was selected as one of the top journalism teachers in the nation by the Newspaper Fund Incorporated. As the Daily Press, Inc. nominee in the annual competition for honors in the 1971 Special Awards Competition, she received honorable mention citations.

Modern trends in yearbook design topic for summer, fall workshops

Focusing on new trends in yearbook design, Tomahawk staffers attended summer and fall workshops to learn new methods of layout design and copy writing. Lithographs and special effects were utilized to create a contemporary mood.

Representing Kecoughtan, staff members, Sherry Skinner, Larry Routten, Kaye Sutterer, Vern Williams, and Betsy Noe, attended the fall session of the Virginia High School League's Publication Workshop to attend classes on contemporary yearbook design.

In addition to a Trophy Rating from the VHSL, the 1971 Tomahawk received an A-plus rating from the National School Yearbook Association. Both awards are the highest given for yearbook excellence.

Williams heads photography staff

Developing negatives, printing pictures, and covering school events, senior Vern Williams worked to meet the staff's needs. Heading the photography staff for the second consecutive year, Vern learned new techniques in photography and printing to complement the changing concepts in yearbook design.

Making lithographs and developing special effect techniques, the head photographer sought unique ways to contribute to the original nature of the book.

Meeting needs of the Tomahawk staff, Doug Grant prints a picture. Deciding what to print first, Vern Williams examines developed negatives.

To professionalize the darkroom, new equipment was purchased. A Nikormat camera, Honeywell strobe, and a film dryer helped the photographers do their jobs.

Helping as he learned, junior Doug Grant assisted in taking photographs for the 1972 Tomahawk.

Though frustrated by the necessity to take last minute pictures and beleaguered by long after school hours, photographers worked in the often thankless jobs of fulfilling staff needs.

Seascape mural provides setting for Military Ball

To provide adequate funds for the annual Military Ball, the NJROTC Club sold greeting cards and doughnuts and sponsored a car wash and bake sales. Setting the mood with an oceanic mural, the dance was held in the cafeteria on March 11, 1972.

Consisting of thirty-four members, the Rifle Team, another part of the club, attended a barbecue in May. Each member paid an additional $2 for club dues and each shell used cost a penny. This money supported the barbecue.

Enjoying the music, David Baker and Shareen McCabe dance to the sounds of "Charley McClinton and the Magnificents."

Judicial system topic discussed for district meet

Assuming either the affirmative or negative sides on the topic of change in the jury system, the KHS Debate Team attended the district tournament held at William and Mary. Nancy Short, Sharon Simon, Bill Holmes, and Tommy Dunn led the team to a third place position.

Competing against schools from many parts of the state, the squad consisted of seventeen members, fifteen who were new to debating. In all, team members participated in twelve debates.

In order to raise funds for literature on debate topics and for trips, club members sponsored a ring toss and a cake walk at the spring ICC Carnival. Selling candy, members raised $235 to add to their treasury.

Summer months found debaters Bill Holmes, Nancy Short, Debbie Buhlman, and Sharon Simon attending a clinic to learn debating skills.

Students report school activities

Beginning the year with an interview with Principal Harry B. Dyche, Jr., Warrior Tom-Tom broadcast school news in 34 weekly programs.

Features on safe driving, shoplifting, and the Jesus movement highlighted the year's programs.

Learning how to write features, interviews, and news, the students concentrated on capturing the spirit of the times.

With assistance from WVEC disc jockeys and technicians, Tom-Tom broadcasters utilized the modern professional equipment to produce the show.

Skills developed with experience

Learning the skills of actors and stage hands, Drama Club members developed theatrical talents helpful in producing school plays.

Laboring under a heavy debt incurred by poor attendance of dramatic productions, members boosted the club treasury by presenting children's movies on Saturday mornings which profitted $200.

In the spring, club members performed a take-off of an opera for the band's root beer and pretzels concert. Participating in the ICC Carnival, club members sponsored a gypsy booth to tell fortunes.

KHS Thespians hold state offices

Representing the KHS dramatists, Donnie Robinson and Cindi Jones served as president and publicity director of the Virginia State Thespians, respectively.

Receiving an excellent rating for their presentation of "Dark Lady of the Sonnets," the Thespians competed in the Invitational One-Act Festival at William and Mary during March. Other excursions made by the group included attending the Virginia State Thespian Conference in Charlottesville and a trip to the International Theater Arts Convention in Indiana.

To insure funds for future productions, the Thespians appropriated money to sponsor the Alpha-Omega Players and the National Theater Company. Participating in the ICC spring carnival, they sold hand-made articles and held an apple-bobbing contest. Ventures netted the student actors $25.

Band successfully raises $12,000 for Edison Pageant of Light's trip

Motivated by the thought of a Florida trip, the KHS band sought successful money raising projects. Contributing time, band members washed cars, baked cookies and cakes, and sold candy and candles to raise needed money.

Purchasing a 1972 Dodge Swinger at a discount from Tysinger Dodge, the band sold tickets for the Winter Band Concert which featured the new car as a door prize. Over $12,000 was raised for the trip by students, parents, teachers, and local organizations to send the band to the Edison Pageant of Light, a national drill competition in Florida.

After traveling for seventeen hours, the KHS band arrived at Fort Myers and began preparation for the pageant. Following a full day of drills and competition against twenty-seven other bands, the KHS band captured fourth place in the national competition.

Boosting pep at home, the band marched during the rainy homecoming parade and represented Kecoughtan in various parades including the Hampton Christmas Parade and the Armed Forces Day Parade. As a community service, the KHS band performed their annual Winter and Spring Concerts, followed by concerts for senior citizens and tiny tots.

Twirling in community activities, majorettes marched with the band in the Armed Forces Day Parade and in the Hampton Christmas Parade. Accompanying the band to Fort Myers, Florida, the majorettes competed in the Edison Pageant of Light.

Under the direction of head majorette, Margo Copper, the squad perfected routines which were performed at the Norfolk Neptunes Football Game and at the Langley Field Speedway.

As a service to the school, the majorettes helped to rouse school spirit by twirling at pep rallies and football games.

Choir members buy new chairs

Under the direction of Mrs. Lucile Sutterer, the A Cappella Choir participated in school and community events.

To raise money for new chairs, choir members sold and distributed varied items including cards, flashlights, and posters.

Recording background music, A Cappella members prepared a commercial aired over WVEC TV for a local car dealer.

As a variation from the normal concert, A Cappella presented a "Candlelight Christmas at Kecoughtan" for their Christmas program Sunday, December 12.

Cooperating with other city choirs, A Cappella members participated in the City Music Festival held at the Hampton Roads Coliseum.

Highlighting the year, the A Cappella Choir performed their annual spring concert, May 18. Clad in white formals and black tuxes, the choir's program included early church music and popular show tunes.

Concluding a successful year, outstanding A Cappella students were recognized in the Awards Assembly. Chosen by fellow choir members, Joe Wilson accepted the Senior Award. Selected by director, Mrs. Lucile Sutterer, Jane Andrews received the Arion Award on the basis of outstanding performance and a high grade average.

Performing in the spring concert, alto Jane Andrews sings a solo of "Colorado Trail."

Choristers excel in salesmanship

Joining A Cappella in the sales campaign, the Girls' Chorus aided the project with several top salesmen during the 1971-72 school year. Winning a TV set, Debbie Davis sold $373 worth of material as Brenda Serrano, Iretta Parker, and Debbie McElheney, runners-up, also received prizes.

Combining voices, Boys' and Girls' Choruses presented a special Christmas assembly for the students. Under direction of Mrs. Lucile Sutterer, the concert choir sang a selection of well-known Christmas tunes and a medley of carols.

Accompanied by Becky Parks, the two choruses performed separate programs during the Spring Concert, May 18. Ending the program on a patriotic key, they again formed the concert choir and sang "Which Way America?"

To conclude chorus activities for the year, outstanding members received notice at the Awards Assembly, May 24. Voted on by chorus members, Iretta Parker was awarded the most outstanding Girls' Chorus member, and James Harless accepted the honor from Boys' Chorus.

Singing "On the Street Where You Live," Donald Baker, Brian McNeal, and Debro Pulley harmonize. Awaiting Mrs. Sutterer's signal to begin a song, members of the Boys' Chorus perform in the spring concert.

Service clubs work to raise funds

Aiming to help those in need, Keyettes and Key Clubbers joined forces to collect money for the March of Dimes, ALSAC, and the Heart Fund.

Cooperating with the Hampton Roads Jaycees, Keyettes went door to door on Apple Butter Sunday, March 12, to raise funds for Camp Virginia Jaycee for mentally retarded children.

In a cafeteria decorated around the "Winter Wonderland" theme, the annual Mistletoe and Holly Ball brought profits of $150 to the clubs' treasuries.

Involved in school activities, both clubs sponsored booths in the ICC Carnival. Costumed as clowns, Keyettes sold balloons and held a bake sale while Key Clubbers sold hot dogs.

Y-Teens donate homemade toys

Promoting friendship and good will among teenagers, members of the Y-Teens, a branch of YWCA, were active in local fund-raising campaigns. During the fall students collected food for deprived people of the peninsula and participated in the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon.

As the Christmas season neared, Y-Teens entertained area residents with caroling and gave a party for underprivileged children. Stuffed animals were made and sold to raise money for the club.

Putting the finishing touches on a stuffed rabbit, president Pam Nystrom works to raise money to support future club projects.

Firemen receive first aid training

Hoping to interest some students to become firemen, KHS sponsored the Volunteer Firemen. Receiving their training at local departments and Thomas Nelson Community College, junior firemen learned the proper way to lay hoses, the correct couplings to use, firefighting techniques, ladder techniques, and first aid.

Donating their time and knowledge of firefighting techniques, junior firemen assisted in school drills by checking safety regulations issued by the Hampton Fire Department. Firemen prevented possible fires by bringing to the administration's attention any fire hazards seen within the building.

Partially financed by funds from the city, junior firemen gained practical experience by joining local volunteer departments in Fox Hill, Buckroe, and Phoebus.

Interact inducts coeds into club

Beginning a new precedent, the Interact Club included girls in their membership.

Cooperating with Big Brothers of America, male members of the Interact Club took young boys to a Tidewater Wings game.

Money for a $100 scholarship, awarded to Janice Palmer, was raised by selling flares and sponsoring a car wash. Further funds were provided by a snowcone booth at the ICC carnival.

Competing with Bethel High's Interact Club, KHS club met and defeated them in an informal football game during the year.

Society studies world problems

Attempting to expand their knowledge of worldly affairs, the International Relations Club heard speakers discuss such topics as Red China's entrance to the United Nations and human rights.

During the year the club collected money for UNICEF and sponsored the United Nations Mobile designed to explain the purpose and history of the U.N.

Under the leadership of Lorenzo Parker, president, the club attended an international buffet which introduced such delicacies as Italian lobster and Chinese rice pudding.

Receiving a donation from Linda Neal, Linda Watson collects funds for UNICEF. Listening to a discussion, Joe Wilson, Gaye Beatty, and James Zeigler gain awareness of world problems.

Cheerers boost student morale

Striving to get away from the old straight-armed cheers, varsity cheerleaders added more chants and soul cheers to their repertoire. Headed by Maureen Lucey and Wanda Creekmore, the squad attempted to promote spirit at all athletic functions.

Beginning the year with practice twice weekly throughout the summer, the squad cheered at football and basketball games. As a new practice, they also wore uniforms to wrestling matches, swimming meets and soccer games.

Doughnuts were sold to raise money for a season's end picnic held for the football team at Mariner's Museum. In an effort to lift team morale, cheerleaders brought kool-aid and fruit to players after games and practice.

Completing a cheer, head cheerleader Maureen Lucey exhibits her form in a C jump.

JV's encourage class coherence

Having been selected in the spring of 1971, JV cheerleaders allotted extra time to perfect cheers for the fall sports' season. To boost team morale, the squad treated the JV team to juice and cookies after the games.

In cooperation with the varsity cheerleaders, the JV cheerleaders cheered at the home games. In an attempt to arouse more school spirit, JV cheerleaders went to the sophomore homerooms to teach students new cheers.

To raise funds for uniforms and shakers, the squad sold schedules, rosters, and baked goods.

Waiting for the crowd to quiet, Suzanne Johnson contemplates the squad's next cheer. Boosting team morale, Sandy Pelmeier leads Warriors in "K-H-S."

Pepsters boost athletes, teams

Selling pompoms and tams, Kecoughtan's Pep Club earned $100 to finance projects.

Readying the school and the teams for games, members lined the halls with posters they had painted.

Attending games and working in coordination with cheerleaders, the recently established Pompom Squad helped to promote spirit within the fans.

To promote spirit, Donna Crank and John Kellogg design a poster for an upcoming football game.

Projects' profits reward champs

With profits of $300 from waste basket sales and drinks at basketball and baseball games, the Varsity Club established Warrior Hall. Wood paneling distinguished this hall from others as pictures of last year's championship baseball team and this year's championship cross country and swimming teams lined the hall.

Partially supported by funds from the club's treasury, the Athletic Banquet was held in the spring of the year. At this time athletes from all sports were honored.

Soliciting drinks at a baseball game, Mike Caison, Mac Collins, and Steve Snaidman help boost the club's treasury. Lining Warrior Hall, pictures of the 1971 championship baseball team and the 1972 championship cross country teams add a touch of distinction to the wood panelling.

French clubbers sell cards, notes

During the Christmas season French Club members sold UNICEF calendars, mini-notes, date books, and Christmas cards. Money from the sales supported underprivileged children and bought supplies for medical research. Profits were used to award second, third, and fourth year students with $6 and $4 for first and second placing, respectively, after testing.

With the other language clubs, the French Club and the French Honor Society participated in the language club banquet by bringing onion soup, garlic bread, and French pastries. As part of the entertainment, Zoe Anne Pritchett and Mike Shareck presented a satirical skit in which they portrayed the two leading characters of films used by French classes.

Donations, gifts aid foreign child

By donating $12 a month, the Spanish Club sponsored an underprivileged Mexican child, Isabelle. Through correspondence, the club learned of Isabelle's background and home life. Necessary funds were raised through candy sales.

Getting into the Spanish mood, members attended a language banquet held in the KHS cafeteria. As each language club featured special dishes, the Spanish Club members were served tacos with Spanish sauce.

Scrabble played by Latin clubbers

Spending a day at the Norfolk Chrysler Museum, members of the Latin Club learned about Roman culture as they studied examples of art from varied time periods.

As the Christmas season approached, students of the club performed "A Christmas Party on Mount Olympus" for other KHS language clubs.

Throughout the year, members competed against one another as they played Scrabble using Latin words. This entertainment proved popular among students as they held informal Scrabble parties that allowed them to practice their skills.

Surveying the Latin Clubbers, president Dale Holcomb conducts a meeting. Looking on, Donna Gwaltney watches as Cathy Conley finishes a word while playing a game of Scrabble.

Imported candy nets club profits

Dominating the German Club's activities, money raising projects were varied and profitable. Imported from Germany, Gummi Bears, a type of candy, were sold by club members. Students also sold place mats for additional club funds. Combined, the projects reinforced the treasury with a total of $204.75.

Getting in the festive spirit, members of the German Club performed in "The Night Before Christmas" before other language clubs.

Participating in the Language Clubs' Banquet, the students brought sauer braten mit spatzla as the German dish.

Health Club visits Hudgins Center

Devoting energy to community service projects, Health Careers Club members toured Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Center to learn about the mentally retarded. During Christmas club members returned to host a Christmas party for the children. Other projects included giving Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets and collecting money as part of a local Heart Fund drive.

Recruiting walkers for the March of Dimes Walk-a-Thon, the Kecoughtan health club sent 200 delegates, the largest number sent by an area service club.

Indicating Kecoughtan's continued support of the blood bank, the Hampton Chapter of the American Red Cross presented the club with a plaque.

To raise money for a nursing scholarship, club members sponsored a fishing pond game at the ICC Carnival.

On a trip to Washington, D.C., members toured Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Science society broadens study

Mini courses, featuring lectures in organic chemistry and microbiology, were sponsored by the Bio-Phy-Chem Society. Taught by science teachers, the courses were designed to give in depth study in pertinent areas.

As club members learned, they also experimented. On weekday afternoons, students could be found making aspirin and preparing bacterial cultures. Working independently, Norman Carte studied formation of crystals.

Participating with other clubs in the ICC Carnival, the science club held a penny pitch and an odds and ends sale. Proceeds of $5.00 were used to finance future projects.

Preparing aspirin from its chemical components, Gary Hollingsworth checks the temperature reading.

DECA awarded club of the year

Earning a trophy for KHS Club of the Year, DECA participated in school, district, and state activities. Holding an open house before the Christmas holidays, members served refreshments to teachers. During December they also conducted a Christmas craft store in which hand made articles were sold.

One of eleven clubs to receive a gold certificate, DECA was commended for their outstanding program of work in state competition. Other awards captured by the club included a trophy for the most outstanding club in District 24 and fourth placement in the state.

Raising $500 used to reinforce the club treasury, DECA members sold Christmas cards, collected dues, and held candy sales.

FBLA donates money to UNICEF

Led by president Anne Royster, FBLA members sold stationery to finance club projects. In order to help the needy children of the world, club members collected approximately $100 to give to UNICEF.

Recognizing the importance of spelling correctly in the business world, members mastered lists of difficult words. Elaine Annas, scoring highest on the test, was awarded first place.

Speaking to the future business leaders, Mrs. Nancy Shrout outlined the new block business program for the 1972-73 school year.

Drive for needy headed by FHA

Sponsoring candy-grams on Valentine's Day, the FHA demonstrated a new type of money-raising project. Each candy-gram was a red heart which contained a pouch of candy. Other money-raising projects undertaken by the FHA were the Christmas bake shop for the faculty and a bake shop at the ICC Carnival.

Aiding the city of Hampton, the FHA sponsored a clothing drive for the welfare department. After collecting clothing, FHA members repaired and transported them to the department for distribution.

Supporting Kecoughtan's varsity football team and coaches, the FHA gave a homecoming breakfast in their honor. The FHA also gave the junior varsity team a victory hot dog roast.

FHA awards, consisting of a $50 scholarship, an outstanding club member trophy, and long stem red roses to graduating seniors, were distributed at a luncheon at Pier 1 during final exam week.

Highlighting the year, the FHA took a trip to Mrs. H.B. Barney's home in Hampton to see her collection of over three hundred historical fans and a seventy year old exclusively furnished doll house, both to be donated to the Syms-Eaton Museum.

Future teachers gain knowledge

Tutoring at Phillips Elementary during lunch, FTA members obtained teaching experience. To learn of other FTA clubs in the area, club members attended a city-wide FTA meeting at Buckroe Junior High School.

To finance projects, club members sold candy in the fall and netted a profit of $15.

Giving a faculty tea, members installed incoming FTA officers. Joe Wilson, president, spoke on the importance of teachers in our current society.

Technical skills readily rendered by Audio-Sonics

Setting microphones for assemblies, planning lighting for school plays, and managing 16mm projectors, Audio-Sonics' members supplied the technical know-how behind the scenes.

Members set up a PA system for the ICC Carnival and Field Day held outside.

Particularly needed when groups came to school, Audio-Sonics' members set up the microphones and speaker systems for bands such as "Free Fare" before they performed.

To establish a fantasy world atmosphere for A Midsummer Night's Dream, club members utilized varying light colors and a mirror ball. They also planned the lighting for the Junior Class Talent Show and the Miss KHS Pageant.

Connecting overhead lights, Mike Fields prepares for an afternoon rehearsal of the Spring Choral Concert. Coordinating efforts, Jerod Cunningham and Ray Link practice the lighting scheme for an upcoming play.

Society attends local workshop

Broadening its scope of involvement, the former Woodshop Club expanded its membership to include students of varying interest in the field of industrial arts. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Harvey Grady and Mr. Darrell Ealey, the Industrial Arts Society overcame the problems of reorganization.

To observe skilled craftsmen, members of the society visited workshops at Langley Air Force Base. While there, members were able to tour the Visitors Center and to examine an Apollo capsule.

Participating in the PTA Federation meeting held May 18, members exhibited group projects, such as picnic tables, and individual projects, such as chisels and punches.

To learn of other projects by other state organizations, members attended the Virginia Industrial Arts Festival held in Virginia Beach.

Offering a helpful hint, Mr. Harvey Grady, sponsor, aids Joe Skeps in completing his project.

3M copier given by Library Club

Recognizing a need for a quick copy service by KHS students, the Library-Audio-Visual Club contributed the $108 necessary for a down payment on a 3-M Copier. Profits from its use were used to pay the balance.

During National Library Week, club members hosted a faculty tea and read stories to students at Captain John Smith Elementary School.

To learn of new systems in library record keeping, members toured the new computerized Norfolk Public Library.

Touring WTAR television studios, members interested in the audio-visual field examined TV cameras and sound systems.

Making a copy of a report, Joan Hicks operates the 3M copier.

Pupils distribute equipment daily

Giving support to the KHS library staff, students straightened books, vertical files, and magazines. Students, forfeiting a study hall, handled the daily distribution of audio-visual equipment.

Locating research material, library assistants helped students prepare for writing term papers and reports. To ease the stress on the library staff, workers aided in unloading, sorting, and shelving new books.

As well as distributing films and projectors, audio-visual members demonstrated equipment and performed minor repairs.

Pupils decrease teachers' tasks

Answering phones, running messages, and sorting IBM cards, student assistants helped relieve workloads of school personnel. On a voluntary basis, aides helped teachers by sorting, filing, and typing.

Selected on the basis of school attendance, grades, and good citizenship, student aides relinquished a study hall period in order to get the necessary work done.

KHS chess club sponsors match

Highlighting their year with a tournament, the chess team sponsored a match open to all students. Held on March 14-28, the contest ended with John Osborn, Gray Salada, and Don Dinger in first, second, and third places, respectively.

In order to raise needed funds for new boards, chess pieces, and tournament prizes, club members sold Betty Benson candies.

Following a schedule established by the Peninsula Chess Club, Kecoughtan's chess team competed with those from other schools. They finished with a record of three wins and three losses.

Tradition fades as classes unite

Traditional class distinctions faded as students strove to accomplish personal and group goals. Freed from singular commitments, each class joined forces with another to achieve success.

Working on floats, class nights, proms, and money making projects, individuals met the challenge of involvement. Having met the transition, underclassmen sought relaxation in the summer before returning to KHS, as seniors pondered the challenge of the future.

Seniors contribute time, energy for school, community endeavors

Graduating as the largest class in KHS' history, the Class of '72 involved itself in community and school life. Concerned with civic action, 54 seniors donated blood while others collected for charities.

Homecoming activities united the class as seniors swept the box drive competition with a record 78,000 boxes and placed second in the homecoming parade.

As worries over college and job acceptances began to ease, seniors flung themselves into a flurry of activities.

Amusing the class with Hall of Fame personalities, the skits were written, directed, and performed by seniors. Reliving past history and glimpsing into the future, seniors honored outstanding members on Class Night. Held at Rodef Sholom Temple, the prom was financed by selling baked goods, candy, and T-shirts.

Graduation preparations began with cap and gown measurements and gained momentum until the last rehearsal.

Spring fever, sandals, and lunch on the lawn marked the closing of twelve years of school for seniors as they emerged from the confines of school to influence the world in their own unique ways.

Pausing to contemplate an error, Louise Wilkins types copy for the senior class section of the Tomahawk. Jiving to the music of the 50's in the Hall of Fame skits, Skip Grimm impersonates Elvis Presley, while Holly Dix dances in the background.

Staff recognizes outstanding seniors at Class Night

Each year the faculty has recognized those seniors who have been outstanding in various school activities. Based on the students' entire high school career, selection is bestowed upon those seniors who generally gave of their time to class and school activities or who excelled in one particular area.

Whether leading the Senior Class as president or serving as editor of Tribal Tales, Jim Lanham devoted countless hours to the betterment of KHS.

Serving on the SCA Executive Board and as SCA chaplain, Sheila Gibson demonstrated her abilities to do a job well.

Continuously maintaining a high academic average, John Holdren led his class as Sophomore Class president and as a member of the SCA Executive Board.

Keeping IBM records in order and sorting attendance records, Sandra Maglin willingly gave her time and energy to assist in the main office.

In activities ranging from National Honor Society to Tomahawk to SCA Executive Board, James Wallace worked to fulfill his varied duties.

With interests ranging from honor societies to service clubs, Katie Bartley pitched in to help with special enthusiasm.

Caught in a year of change, Mike Goodwin, as SCA president, challenged students to become involved in school and community activities.

Whether coordinating news stories as co-editor of Tribal Tales or collecting money for Keyettes, Lisa Williams gave of her energies and time to get the jobs done.

As a Key Club member, SCA representative, and MHS member, NJROTC cadet of the year Joe Pacquette modestly and energetically committed himself to the betterment of KHS.

With her animated personality, editor Betsy Noe devoted countless hours of her time to produce an innovative and creative yearbook.

Whether taking pictures, developing negatives, or printing film, Vern Williams spent long hours after school to assure par excellence in yearbook photography.

Emcee John Holdren recognizes Debbie Goodwin for writing the class poem. As president of SCA, Mike Goodwin directs student enthusiasm at a pep rally.

Executive board guided by Parker

Emphasizing class unity and participation, juniors planned money making projects to implement established goals. Under Steve Parker's leadership, the class sold doughnuts and collected $777 in class dues.

During football homecoming festivities, Denise Blotzer and Kim Dillard reigned as junior attendants. Committee co-chairmen Anne Riesbeck and Mary Ann Rametta directed construction of the class float, "Beat the Falcons." After the parade through downtown Hampton, the float was judged first among all entries.

Rebelling against conventional class competition, juniors conducted their own Christmas toy campaign. Donated toys and money were delivered to Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Center for the mentally retarded.

Utilizing a new concept in entertainment, chairman Mary Ann Rametta set the Junior Class Talent Show in a Gay Nineties' mood. During intermission and between acts, Can-Can girls and a barber shop quartet provided audience entertainment.

As the year neared its end, juniors gathered with their dates for the Ring Dance. In a cafeteria decorated as an enchanted garden, juniors finally placed their class rings on their fingers.

Sophomores strive for new goals

Entering Kecoughtan for the first time, confused sophomores gathered in the auditorium for the orientation assembly. Viewing skits and listening to faculty speakers, new Warriors previewed KHS activities.

As new classes settled into a comfortable routine, sophomores elected class officers and executive board members.

Under the leadership of President T. G. Manus, sophomores collected approximately 16,000 boxes for the annual bonfire box-drive.

Gathering in garages and back-yards, sophomores constructed their class float "Don't count your Falcons before they hatch" for the 1971 Homecoming Parade.

To finance Co-Rec Night, the Class of '74 sold "Support," a house-hold detergent, milk, juice, and candy.

Modern courses challenge pupils

Facing the need for change, KHS faculty members turned in new directions to challenge students. In examining new curricula, the staff hoped to devise new courses to stimulate the interests of students.

As each student became recognized as an individual, he developed an awareness of his responsibility. Urging the participation of each student, teachers offered academic, athletic, and creative outlets for students to pursue.

Hampton School Board evaluates benefits of year-round school plan

With an average increase of 2,000 students entering school per year, the School Board has been needed lately more than it ever has been. Discussions of a twelve-month school plan and the problems of busing students have been the main topics under consideration. Land surveys and inspectors were sent out to help plan more school buildings so that the pupil-teacher ratio could be kept down.

Monthly luncheons were the setting for combined

School Board and City Council meetings. At these informal meetings the school board kept the council informed by discussing new programs and asking for suggestions.

Students from the SCA of Kecoughtan met monthly with Mr. Garland R. Lively, superintendent of Hampton schools. Topics of discussion were students' dress code and conduct, baccalaureate exercises, and the continuous school year. Consideration was given to the calendar for the next school year.

Hampton School Board: Mr. Kermit Jensen, Mrs. T.N. Hunnicutt, Mr. Robert Dewey, Dr. Mery Christien, Mr. T.T. Thompson, Mrs. Welter P. Smith, Mr. Alphonso King.

Reviewing a school board memorandum, Mr. Garland Lively makes mental note of its contents.

Dyche stresses individual goals

Caught in the midst of change, Principal Harry B. Dyche, Jr. stressed progress in offering a quality education to all individuals. With the completion of the new girls' gym, the science wing, and the history and English annex, new dimensions were added to the KHS curriculum.

To continue quality education in the schools, new programs were utilized as financial burdens beset high school budgets. As the 45-15 plan for continuous school year is developed, new curricula are being written to expand educational opportunities.

Feeling that students need to be heard on important educational issues, Mr. Dyche offered the students a voice in developing new courses and policies.

Recognizing the influx and assessability of drugs in today's society, Mr. Dyche stressed the need for educational programs to cope with the mounting drug problem.

Combining the varied responsibilities of a principal and a newly elected council member, Mr. Dyche accepted the challenge of the 70's as a call to educate the students to the needs of today.

Browsing through city council minutes, Mr. Dyche ponders a motion. Addressing the student body at a pep rally, Mr. Dyche stresses school unity and commends athletes.

Administrators check attendance; principals direct programs, pupils

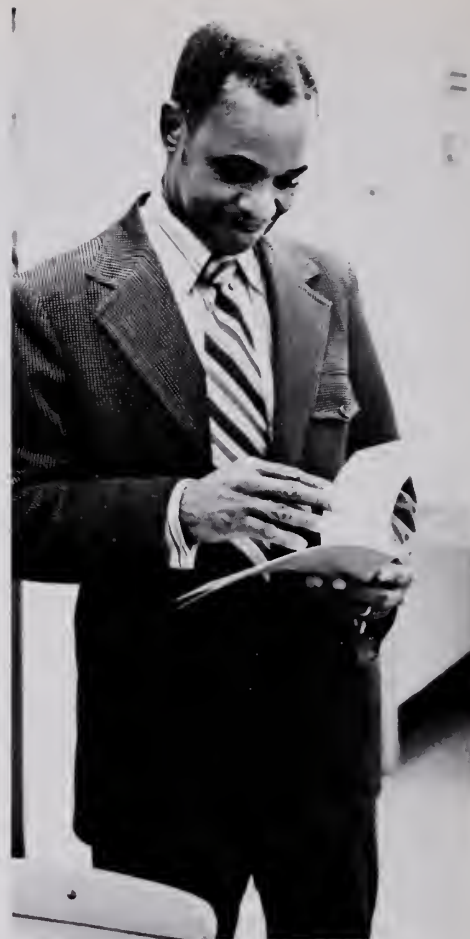

Keeping up with school activities and student problems, KHS administrators found themselves confronted with daily pressures and demanding problems.

When Kecoughtan planned assembly programs, Mr. Walter Jones was always on hand organizing and quieting students. Finding substitute teachers to fill vacant positions and overseeing the work of the custodial staff were also jobs of Mr. Jones.

Working to keep reliable teachers at KHS, Mr. Fletcher Gray observed teachers and evaluated them. Mr. Gray also assisted Mr. Jones with assembly planning.

Mrs. Shirley Booth, dean of girls, took care of attendance and discipline. Placing students in jobs and taking care of girls' problems completed Mrs. Booth's job. Taking the job of Dean of Boys, Mr. Ben Rich was confronted with boys' attendance, tardies, and youth problems at Kecoughtan.

Browsing through a 45-15 plan-book, Mr. Walter Jones considers its possibilities. Confronted by Mr. Fletcher Gray, Paul Pishko and Nancy Crawford present their permanent hall passes. Pondering a disciplinary problem, Mr. Ben Rich checks the boys' attendance roster to verify an absentee.

Secretaries perform various tasks

Aiding students, teachers, and visitors, members of the office staff were responsible for keeping the daily activities running at a steady pace.

New students and those transferring were aided by Mrs. Beatrice Grimmer, school registrar and secretary to the principal. Processing grades, report cards, and IBM material were included in her duties.

Mrs. Betsy Storey, office receptionist, was responsible for processing mail and taking care of the payroll.

Plagued by more transcripts than ever before, Mrs. Gladys Hardrath, guidance secretary, also made students' appointments with the guidance counselors.

Innovated by change and a new manager, the bookstore remained open throughout the day. Mrs. Alice Evans handled all club monies and informed the organizations of their financial status. Duplicating work was done by student assistants that staffed the store. Although a variety of objects were sold, Certs and cough drops were consistently best sellers.

As members of the Hampton Association for Educational Secretaries, the secretaries attended monthly meetings. Providing a night out for city secretaries and their employers, the annual Bosses Night was held on March 1 at the Holiday Inn.

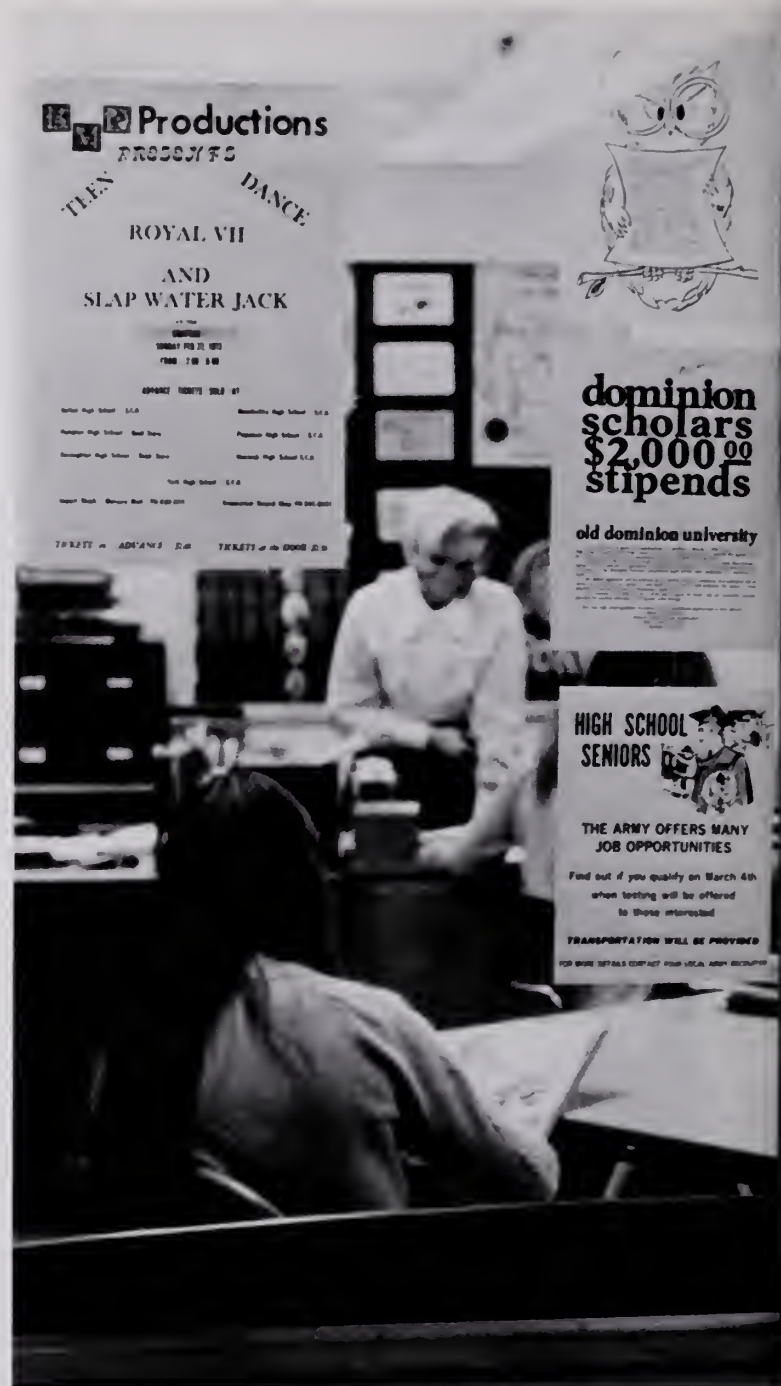

Listening intently, Mrs. Beatrice Grimmer confirms an appointment with the principal. Keeping track of SCA finances, Mrs. Alice Evans, bookstore manager, counts Basketball Homecoming Dance profits.

Counselors help select vocations

Although the student-counselor ratio was high, the Kecoughtan guidance office made an increased effort to keep parents and students better informed of the students' progress. Five permanent members and one volunteer tried to help all the students with their present problems and future plans. Up to date literature and information were supplemented by college representatives. Films were obtained by guidance director, Mrs. Jane Price, but were not shown because of lack of space. She felt that after completion of the satellite library, films would be used by individual students.

Not completely satisfied with their achievements, the staff continued to investigate the possibility of new classes and learned that a psychology course would be received well by the students.

Behind a wall of glass, Mrs. Gladys Hardrath offers students assistance. Gathering pertinent information, Mrs. Jane Price prepares to talk with college bound students. Totaling junior credits occupies Mrs. Judith Niles' time.

New equipment improves library

With the addition of new supplies and an audio-visual center in the annex, KHS librarians were plagued with additional work. Hired to take care of the additional work load, Mrs. Hazel Adams spent most of her time in the new center with Mrs. Jacqueline Carter.

New additions in the library were the book return box and the computer from the computer math classes. Another addition was the electric time puncher used to record time on hall passes.

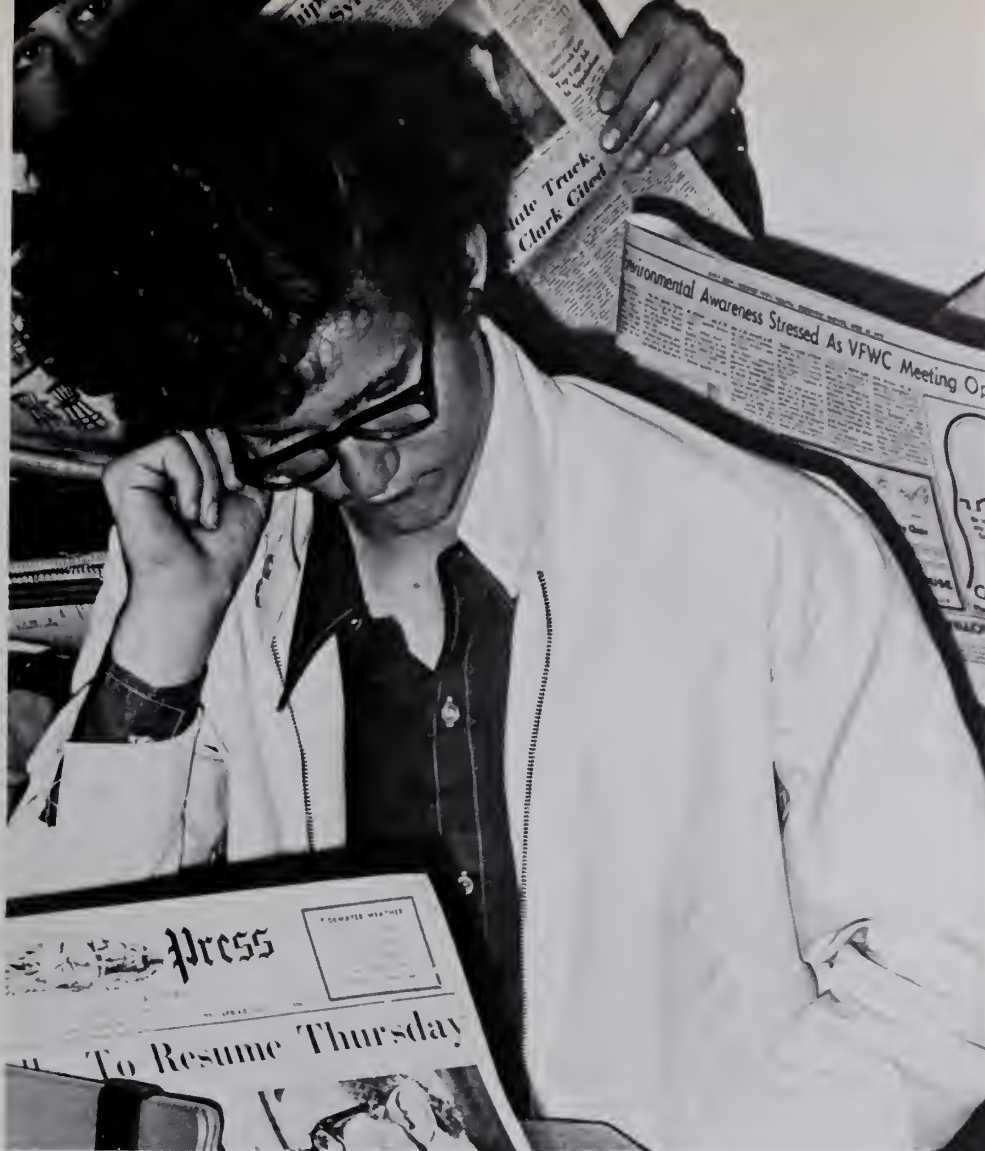

Assisting Patty Watson, Mrs. Mary Johnson thumbs through a reference book. Threading the microfilm viewer, Mrs. Hazel Adams prepares the machine for a student to use in research.

During an informal class discussion, Mrs. Jane Wetzel emphasizes a point while Cindy Butler listens intently. Playing the part of a witch in Macbeth, Denise Doleac stirs the brew.

New curriculum planned for use by English staff

English faculty members from Hampton City Schools met to revise the current English curriculum into quarter courses. With this plan, several required courses were eliminated. Hoping that other courses would follow suit, plans were made to provide more visual aids, cassettes, and recorders.

As a change from the usual junior English and history classes, a new course, American Studies, was offered this year. Taught by Mrs. Wanda Belloch and Mrs. Mary Anna Lair, the course combined history and English. With the convenience of a large space provided by the annex, students were able to work in groups, put on skits, and use simulated games.

Taking an active part in student affairs and publications, English teachers sponsored Tribal Tales, Tomahawk, SCA, and sophomore and junior classes.

In an effort to reveal various aspects of the English language, the English department, headed by Mrs. Betty Lee Cheney, offered as electives such courses as Black Experience, creative writing, remedial reading, and humanities.

Concentrating on a political cartoon, Scott Gibson listens to a lecture concerning makeup of an editorial page. Playing two instruments simultaneously, Mr. Rose entertains Mrs. Elizabeth Porter's English students with a medley of folk ballads.

While studying a unit on com-media dell'arte, Pam Mitchell and Kathy Painter portray characters from the Renaissance period. Explaining the basis of a good interview, Mrs. Joel Grimm lectures to her first year journalism students. Attempting to dispel her students' prejudices, Mrs. Mary Anna Lair passes samples of larva worms to her students for tasting.

Students utilize practical learning

Becoming acquainted with basics in their respective electives, students applied these skills in practical situations offered by English electives.

Learning make-up techniques and newspaper style, Journalism I students applied these skills by publishing Papoose Press, Junior Jive, and Graduate Gazette. Journalism II & III students revived Tribal Tales by using modern make-up and magazine style.

Public speaking was emphasized in speech class. Journalistic skills were used in writing effective speeches for Warrior Tom Tom and in giving oral presentations in class. Making use of these skills, Dave Tripp received a second place in a regional American Legion contest.

Constructing models of future theaters and composing one act plays were major projects of Drama I students. Basically an acting class, Drama II required students to utilize acting techniques. Comedia dell'arte and 18th century characters were imitated while studying the history of drama.

Learning terms associated with the stage, Drama II T students familiarized themselves with the technical aspects of producing a play.

Delivering a prepared talk, Dave Tripp uses principles learned in Mrs. Clara Mayfield's speech class. Filming Jon Williams eating his cafeteria lunch, creative writing student Gayle Rodgers makes a movie on overindulgence.

Field trips, labs involve classes

Stressing individualized instruction, Mrs. Nan Jordan assumed chairmanship of the language department for the second semester. Teachers were encouraged to work in small groups with their students so that more material could be covered, and use was made of the language laboratory, isolating students to hear a native speaker.

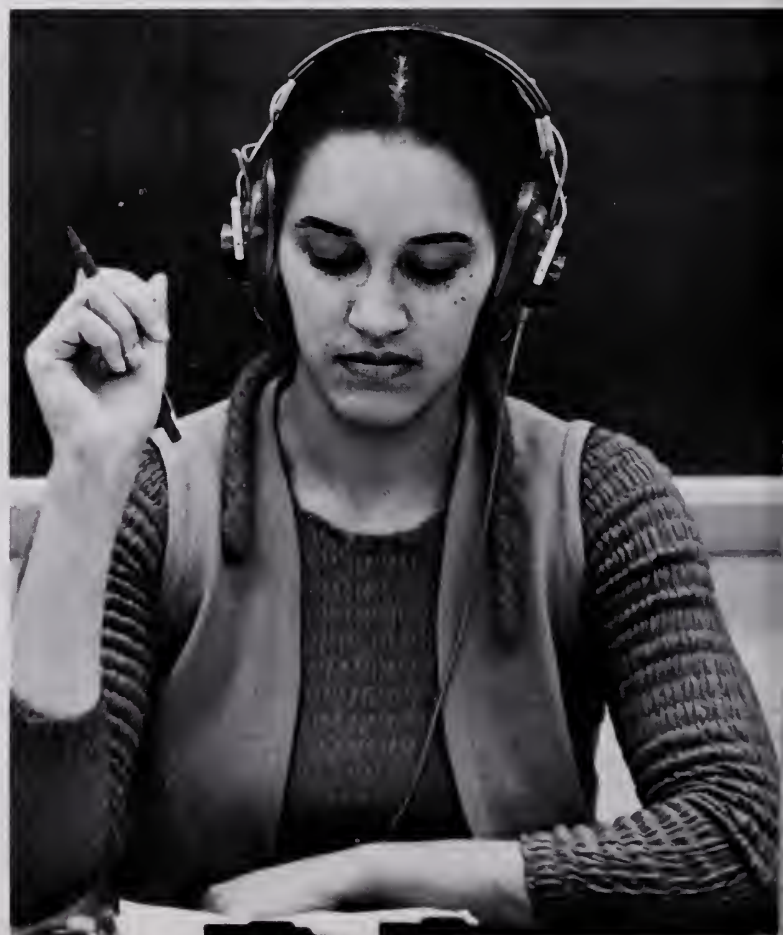

In an attempt to relate language courses to everyday life, field trips were taken to places such as the Richmond Museum of Art. French students sampled crepes suzette at the International House of Pancakes while Spanish classes explored the cooking at the Mexicali Restaurant.

Cassettes and a new language lab were under consideration as additions to the expanding department.

Language Department—Front Row: Mrs. Judith Williamson, Mrs. Lynn Grandla, Mrs. Virginia Hess, Miss Mary Ball. Second Row: Mrs. Carolyn Ancarrow, Miss Tyla Matteson, Mrs. Nan Jordan.

Joining in a French meal, Theresa Nystrom and Valerie Wilson eat with other students at the International House of Pancakes. Listening to her Spanish students recite their dialogues, Mrs. Pamela Brown teaches in the language laboratory.

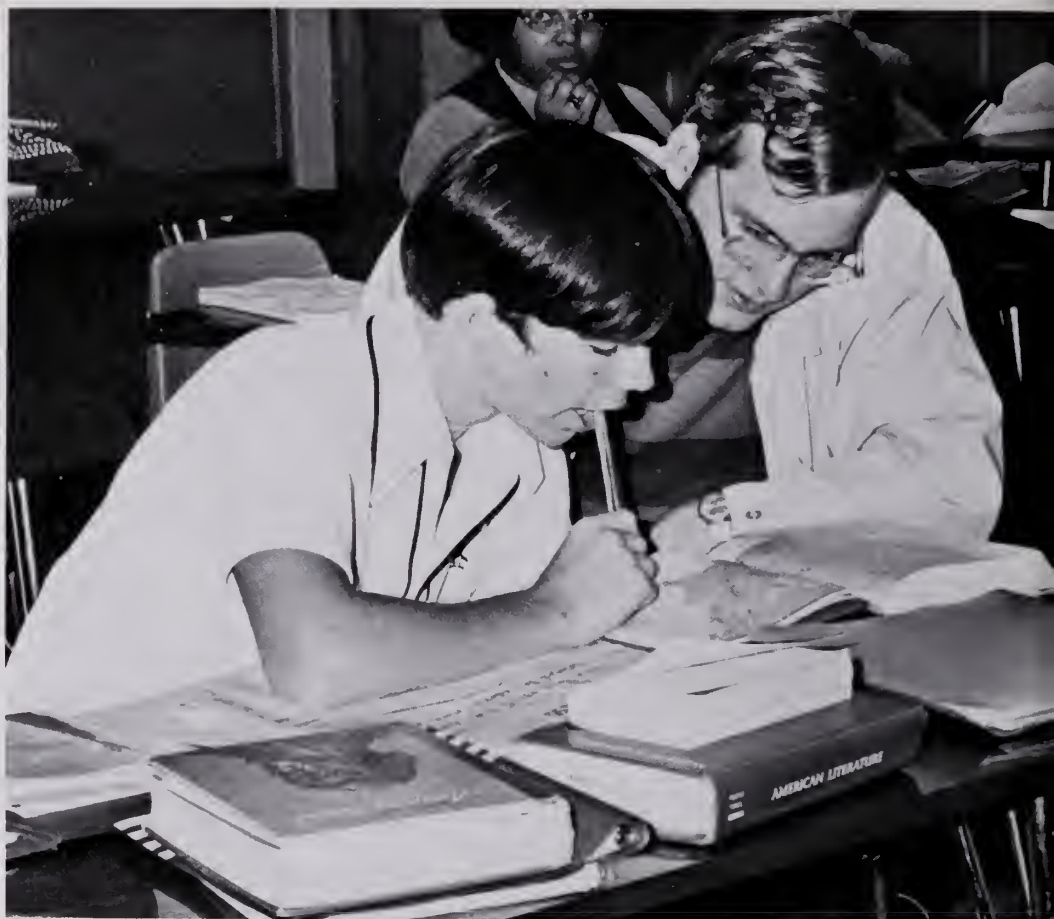

Before repeating the Spanish dialogue, Calvin Allen listens to it on tape. Showing his work to Miss Mary Ball, student Tim Mack strives to master a Latin lesson.

Combined team relates courses

Under the guidance of Mrs. Theodora Neilson, the Social Studies Department offered a variety of classes. Not stopping with the traditional required courses of government and history, practical electives such as economics, personal finance, and international relations were available to students. U.S. history and American literature were combined in a new approach called American Studies. Mrs. Wanda Blelloch worked closely with the English department's Mrs. Mary Anna Lair in this project.

In an effort to update the department even more, plans were begun to include a sociology or psychology course in the 1972-1973 curriculum.

Examining a map of the United States, Robert Humphrey and Russell Norris join efforts in history class. Explaining the principles of Black separatism, Mr. Russell Hopson speaks to Miss O'Malley's Black Experience students. Relating the experiences of Japanese kamikaze pilots, Pamela Nystrom, Sarah Hagemann, and Yvonne Mingee report on one phase of World War II.

New techniques give classes lift

Varied techniques and approaches used by social studies teachers gave students a change from the usual classroom methods. Recently completed, the kiva, a multi-purpose room, was utilized for games, skits, and films.

One of the teachers making use of this facility was Mrs. Audrey Williams, whose class staged the 1824 presidential election. Given direction by Mrs. Williams, the candidates and their followers campaigned with speeches and promises, until the project ended with the swearing in of the new president and his inaugural reception.

Behavioral scientists found that the "M&M" idea of reward for students' work was a valid one. Mrs. Neilson, department head, recommended this idea as an incentive for student participation. She noted that the concept had been tried several times during the year with successful results.

Showing her research material to Mrs. Wanda Blielloch, Becky Vines asks for approval.

Social Studies Department—Front Row: Mrs. Joyce Ellingsworth, Miss Garry Farinholt, Mrs. Lois Handy, Miss Donna O'Malley, Mr. David Nelson, Mrs. Theodora Neilson. Second Row: Mr. David Dwyer, Mrs. Wanda Blielloch, Mr. Steve Hochman, Mr. Ray Smith, Mr. Ernest Evaretta. Third Row: Mr. Donald Taylor, Mr. William Cawley, Mr. Revis Conrad, Mr. James Hathaway, Mr. Rauben Salade

Knowledge of humanities, culture examined by students of the arts

Representing a variety of subjects and ideas, the Fine Arts Department offered students a change from their strictly academic courses.

Utilizing original compositions, the advanced art class joined with students of creative writing and drama in an effort to relate these courses. Guided by art teacher, Miss Cheryl Meidinger, students sponsored a city wide art show in the spring.

Participating in the Edison Pageant of Light, the Warrior band, directed by Mr. Fred Pendergraft, traveled to Ft. Myers, Florida, where they placed fourth in the competition.

Besides preparing choruses for performances, Mrs. Lucile Sutterer taught a music appreciation course. Open to all students, it provided a survey of music from early time to the twentieth century.

Projects for Mrs. Linda Hamlin's and Mrs. Sue Smith's Home Ec classes included attending the Wedding Festival at the Chamberlain Hotel and studying housing problems.

With four teachers, in depth studies on a subject were possible in MAD-Civ classes. Because there was no textbook used in the course, lectures were supplemented with films, records, and student skits.

Receiving instruction from Mr. Fred Pendergraft, Mark Erdman practices on the drum. Studying the face before her, Goody Coffey strives to mix the right color.

Studying pattern design, Mrs. Sue Smith offers Deborah Cotton fashion advice. Surrounded by the tools of her trade, Miss Cheryl Meidinger sketches a picture.

Fine Arts Department: Mrs. Lucile Sutterer, Miss Cheryl Meidinger, Mr. Fred Pendergraft, Mrs. Sue Smith, Mrs. Linde Hemlin.

Training, equipment develop skills

Qualified business students interested in office work were given the chance to put their training to practice. Arranged by the Cooperative Office of Education, students were placed in part time jobs such as secretaries, librarians, and stenographers. Businessmen called the COE and various schools requesting these student assistants.

Preparing for next year's block system, the business department, headed by Mr. I.G. Warner, received new equipment including dic-taphones, transcribing machines, and duplicators. Skill builders and reading machines were also acquired so that students were able to practice their skills at individual paces.

To aid students interested in a business career or college, the department offered general business courses such as Typing I, Shorthand I, bookkeeping, and record keeping. Typing and shorthand were offered as second year courses for students interested in gaining proficiency.

Tabulating a column of figures, Renelda Foster works for accuracy. Preparing a display for the library, Mrs. Virginia Johnson, DE teacher, works with students, Harry Watson and Jimmy Evans.

Practicing her shorthand, Kathy Halabuk takes dictation from Mrs. Elizabeth Austen. Returning the carriage, Pam Moore hurries to complete an assignment.

Grady organizes monitor station

Under supervision of department head Harvey Grady, eight industrial art students organized a monitor radio station, "Warrior React." Licensed by FCC, the monitor system was activated in the spring. Organized to aid the community, the station has called such organizations as the police and fire department when people in need of assistance contacted them.

Learning the basics of mechanical drawing, metal and wood work, and carpentry, industrial art students prepared for possible future occupations.

Drafting students learned to develop their creative ability by studying methods of design for homes and buildings.

Industrial Arts Department: Mr. Odis Leonard, Mr. Herman Daniel, Mr. Darrell Ealey, Mr. Harvey Grady

Using his knowledge of drafting techniques, Ray Branner designs a building. Constructing a lamp base on a wood lathe, Robert Burns concentrates on perfection.

Honing a cutter bin, David Lewis utilizes the metal shop equipment. Clamping pieces of wood, Robert Taylor and Arthur Tracey begin to make a bowl.

Inspecting his apparatus, Randy Colthorpe performs Millikan's oil drop experiment. Learning the location of the blood vessels, Wendy Galing examines a fetal pig at her home.

Science Department—Front Row: Miss Toni Caruso, Mrs. Mary O'Neill, Mrs. Betty Long, Mrs. Tempie Armentrout
Second Row: Mr. John Ivy, Mrs. Barbara Fullerton, Mrs. Debra Hudnall, Mrs. Linda Rice, Mr. Leonard Thomas.

Experiments, fairs arouse interest

In an attempt to arouse interest in the medical profession, physiology seniors visited Medical College of Virginia with Mrs. Linda Rice. Fetal pigs and pithed frogs were skinned, and their muscular, circulatory, and nervous systems were scrutinized.

Tidewater Science Congress entries, Kathy Urbano, Linda Pace, Cindy Stinson, Vicky Webb, Kathy Fitzgerald, and D. J. Janosik, assembled exemplary projects in the field of biological science. Those who entered chemical experiments were Mike Filliman, Mike Shareck, and Dale Holcomb.

All physiology students submitted applications to the Virginia Junior Academy of Science held in Fredericksburg in early May.

Interest in broad chemical concepts was a prerequisite for placement in the Chem Study class. Department chairman, Mrs. Debra Hudnall, emphasized mathematical concepts and a varied experimental approach to chemistry related problems.

Physics also had an advanced class for calculus students which incorporated further experimentation as well as more difficult problems.

Building a foundation for high school science, biology students were acquainted with the frog's anatomy. Splenectomies and heart transplants were performed, and cats' skeletal systems were studied.

Pouring hydrochloric acid onto marble chips, John Verlander experiments to determine the molecular weight of a gas. Stitching the frog's side after a splenectomy, a sophomore completes a dissection.

Using the overhead projector, Mrs. Ruth Edwards explains a homework problem. Serving not only as a math teacher, assistant football coach Mr. Robert Mann generates enthusiasm at a pep rally. Working at the computer, Mark Filliman completes an assignment.

Courses explore broad interests

Divided into four categories, math classes ranged from the advanced algebra-trig course to the more general consumer math. College prep and semester courses rounded out a program that offered a course for every type of student. All classes were concerned with theories, derivations of formulas, and, in the case of analytical geometry, graphs.

Classes were often taught by methods other than the textbook. Replacing the blackboard, the overhead projector was a help to students and teachers alike, while graph stencils were also used to make learning and teaching easier. Calculus and computer math students took advantage of television programs geared to increase understanding of their subjects.

Algebra taught in phases I and II was introduced into the curriculum. Equivalent to college prep algebra, the course readied students for geometry in two years.

Increased interest in the computer math class made a second terminal necessary. Placed in the library, it was available for use by students not in the class. Programmed in IBM-APL 360 language, the terminal was able to transmit and receive from computers in area high schools and William and Mary College.

Recent addition widens program

New equipment, combined with the just-completed girls' gym, enabled the Physical Education Department to expand its curriculum noticeably. Ready for use after the Christmas holidays, the gym boasted ample space and synthetic flooring. Boys also profited from the new area because it left them a gym of their own.

Eight new ping-pong tables, a trampoline, and bowling equipment made it possible for those sports to be introduced into the curriculum. Girls' classes also included badminton and gatorball which were not a part of the course last year. Boys, however, continued to master skills of popular sports such as football, basketball, soccer, and wrestling.

Smashing the shuttle, Miss Sandra Anderson demonstrates the proper badminton technique. Exhibiting proper form, Mike Rendon works out on the parallel bars.

Pensively, Coach Ben Rich evaluates the potential of an aspiring young athlete. Attempting a forehand swing, Robin Whipple returns her opponent's serve.

Cape cruises enhance curriculum

Opportunities were numerous for cadets interested in gaining practical as well as classroom knowledge. Participating in summer cruises under the Navy's sponsorship enabled the cadets to become involved in shipboard life. Cruises, seven to fourteen days in duration, took place off Cape Charles and Cape Henry.

Holding practices twice weekly to perfect their skills, the drill team placed first in the Poquoson Parade. Color guard and drill team members also participated in the Spring Azalea Festival and the Peninsula Armed Forces Day Parade.

As the Navy Band entertained the cadets and invited guests, the naval library, trophies, and awards were presented during the January Awards Ceremony. Senior recipients for the Good Conduct Award were Paul Richardson and Keith Midgette. Seniors Joe Paquette and Tom Richardson received the Kecoughtan Honor Award. Received by those with an "A" average in NJROTC, the Naval Science Award was given to Edward Nisbet and Joe Paquette.

Standing at attention during an afternoon practice, Ron Dezern displays gun-handling tactics. Learning to chart a course, Chuck McGaffic receives instruction from CWO Arthur Spriggs.

Completing a recommendation, Commander Edmund Stronski adds a final comment. Assisting cadet Buddy Lemaster, Joe Paquette explains principles of navigational plotting.

Substitute adds nutrients to diet

"What's bulgur? It's in all our food?" Questions such as these were answered by a Daily Press feature article which discussed the usage of bulgur by the KHS cafeteria staff. A commodity provided by the Department of Agriculture, this cracked wheat made bread taste similar to whole wheat; in addition to being used in coleslaw and meatloaf, it served as a rice substitute.

National Lunch Day was observed by the staff of twenty who served pizza, which was on the menu of schools across the nation.

To plan the school meals for the next four weeks, a committee was formed from the city schools each month. Hamburgers and spaghetti rated high with Kecoughtan students.

Spooning a serving, Mrs. Helen Plouta caters to arriving students. Turning to talk to a co-worker, Mrs. Maude Jordan pauses while distributing dressing during second lunch. Concentrating on her work, Mrs. Marian Malcolm hurries to prepare another plate.

Custodians help keep KHS clean

Sweeping rooms, mopping floors, and fixing lights were some tasks performed by the KHS custodians.

Headed by Mr. Melvin Smith, the staff of twelve also set up chairs for school dances and helped to clean up afterwards. Sometimes frustrated by the seemingly never clean school, they continued to sweep and dust the school corridors.

Gathering supplies, Mr. Samuel Rodgers prepares to clean the restrooms by the gymnasium. Emptying a waste basket, Mr. James Bailey of the custodial staff works after school.

Business world attracts youths

Caught by the bonds of inflation, the business world met the challenge by tempering price increases and by stimulating productivity.

Entering the working world, youths brought with them fresh ideas and new approaches to foster change in the economic community.

As local businesses lent support to school publications, athletic programs, and dramatic series, Warriors' buying power propelled expansion of local businesses.

NEWPORT NEWS. WE'VE LAUNCHED MORE THAN 500 SHIPS.

But wait 'til you see our encore. When we started out in 1886, we were just a small ship repair yard. We named the company Newport News. Because we were proud to be doing business here.

Today we're the largest shipyard in the world. And we're still proud to call ourselves Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. Because a lot of the people who helped put us where we are today come from right here on the Virginia Peninsula.

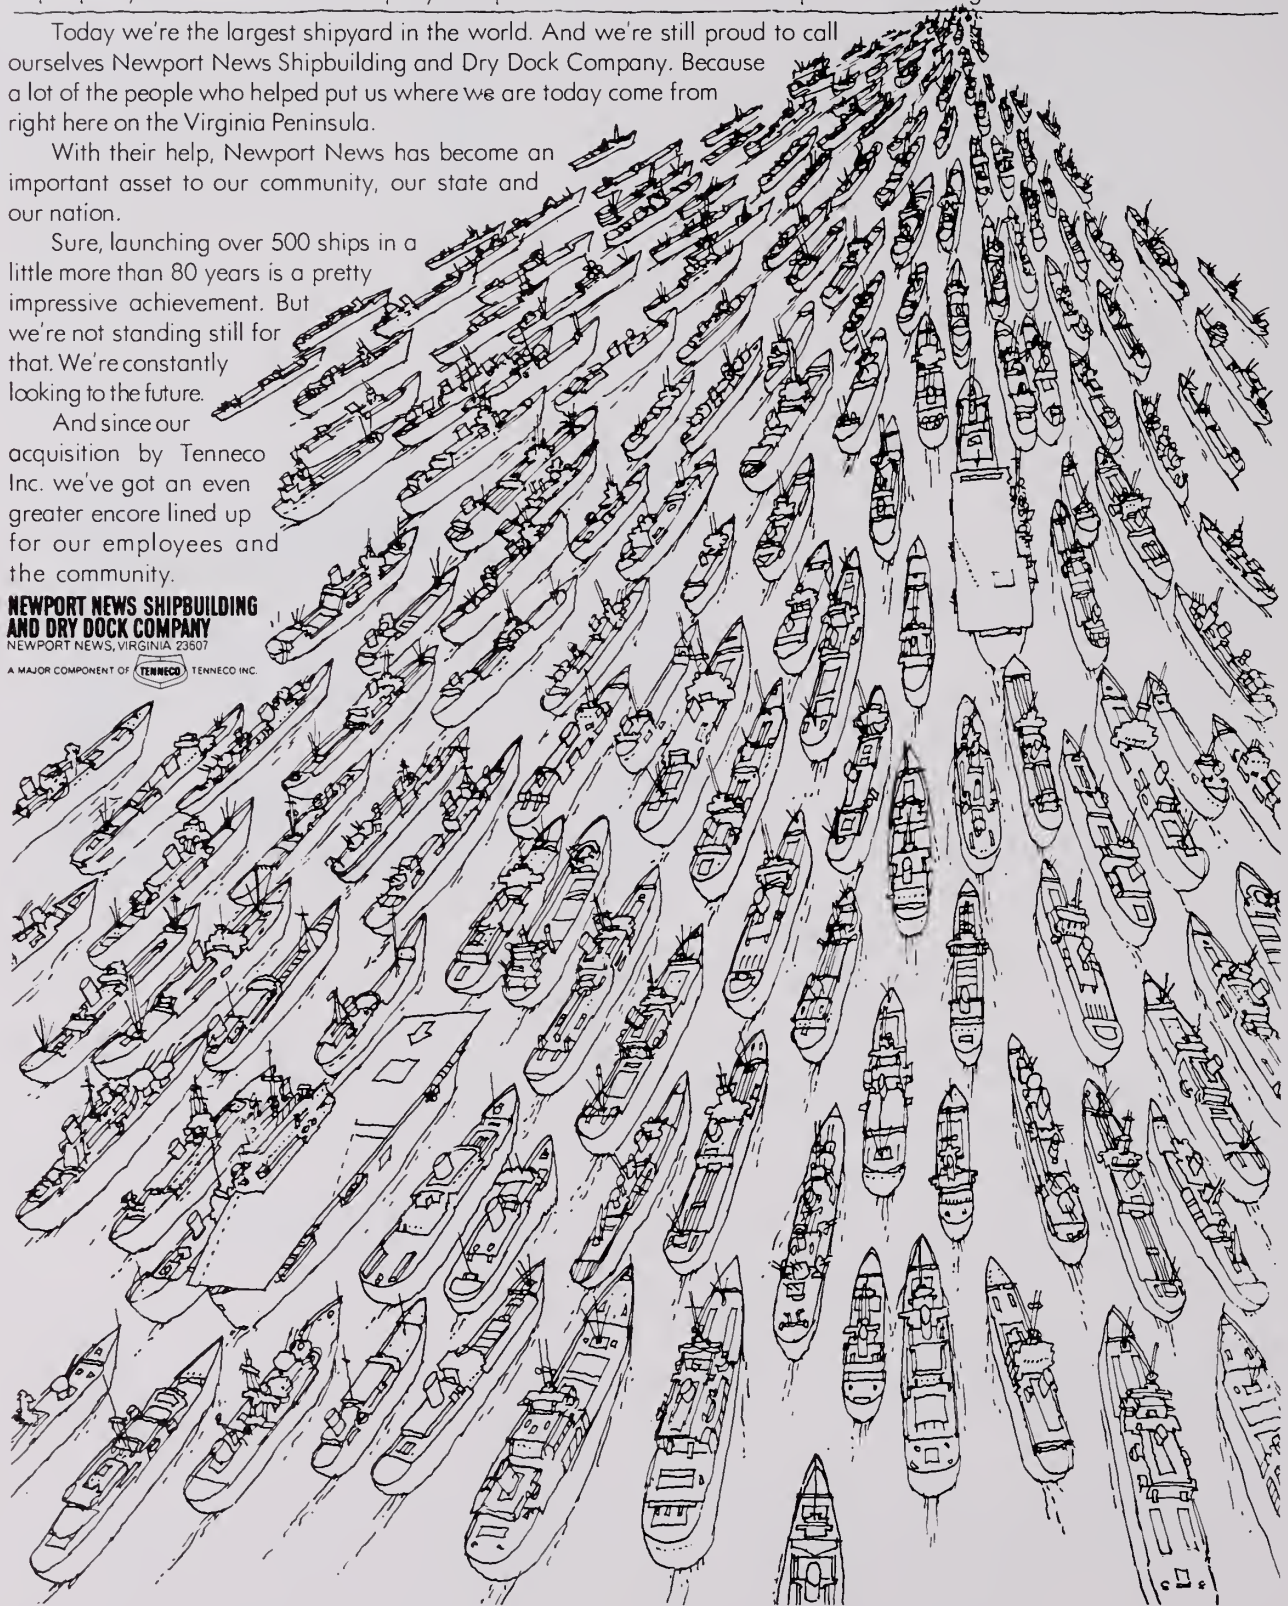

With their help, Newport News has become an important asset to our community, our state and our nation.

Sure, launching over 500 ships in a little more than 80 years is a pretty impressive achievement. But we're not standing still for that. We're constantly looking to the future.

And since our acquisition by Tenneco Inc. we've got an even greater encore lined up for our employees and the community.

Tomahawk

Using offset lithography, Inter-Collegiate Press of Shawnee Mission, Kansas, assisted by consultant Mr. Terry Gilson of Richmond, Virginia, published the 1972 Tomahawk.

Cover design by Vern Williams was a special order white buckram material with a special lithography process. All lettering on cover utilized transfer type.

All type in the 1972 Tomahawk was Trade Gothic Extended with point sizes as follows: body copy, 10 point with 2 point leading; captions, 8 point with 2 point leading; identifications, 6 point set solid; headlines, 18 point.

Credits

Without the help of many, the production of the 1972 Tomahawk would not have been possible.

Professional photographers Mr. Jim Saine and Mr. Jack Lambert provided class pictures, senior portraits, and club photographs.

Special credit is given to Mike Barroso, Tribal Tales photographer, who took pictures in Florida and at the ICC Carnival. Special thanks is given to Vern Williams who developed new procedures to accentuate the book's theme.

Enjoying Indian Week festivities, Miss Donna Price, Mrs. Virginia Hess and Mrs. Nan Jordan join students in celebrations.

Gazing through a limited scope,
Debbie Zanks ponders the future.
Huddled together, two students reflect on past events.

Shielded young search realities for future hope

Sheltered by worlds of unreality, students bask in an environment of security. Not yet awakened to the realities of society, youths seek answers in the microcosm of school and community.

Actively pursuing individual goals and untempered desires, Warriors search for identity in a world fettered by established principles.

As half-recognized citizens, the young search for fulfillment in a changing macrocosm.

Perched upon a mound of stones, Barbara Bryant thoughtfully views the seascape. Leaving school, students rush to busses after a hectic day.

Youths explore changing world

Weekly headlines foretell the coming of change: an Attica bleeds in the hearts of men, religious temperaments ferment in the heat of northern Ireland, drugs permeate the school scenes, and the President makes amends in China.

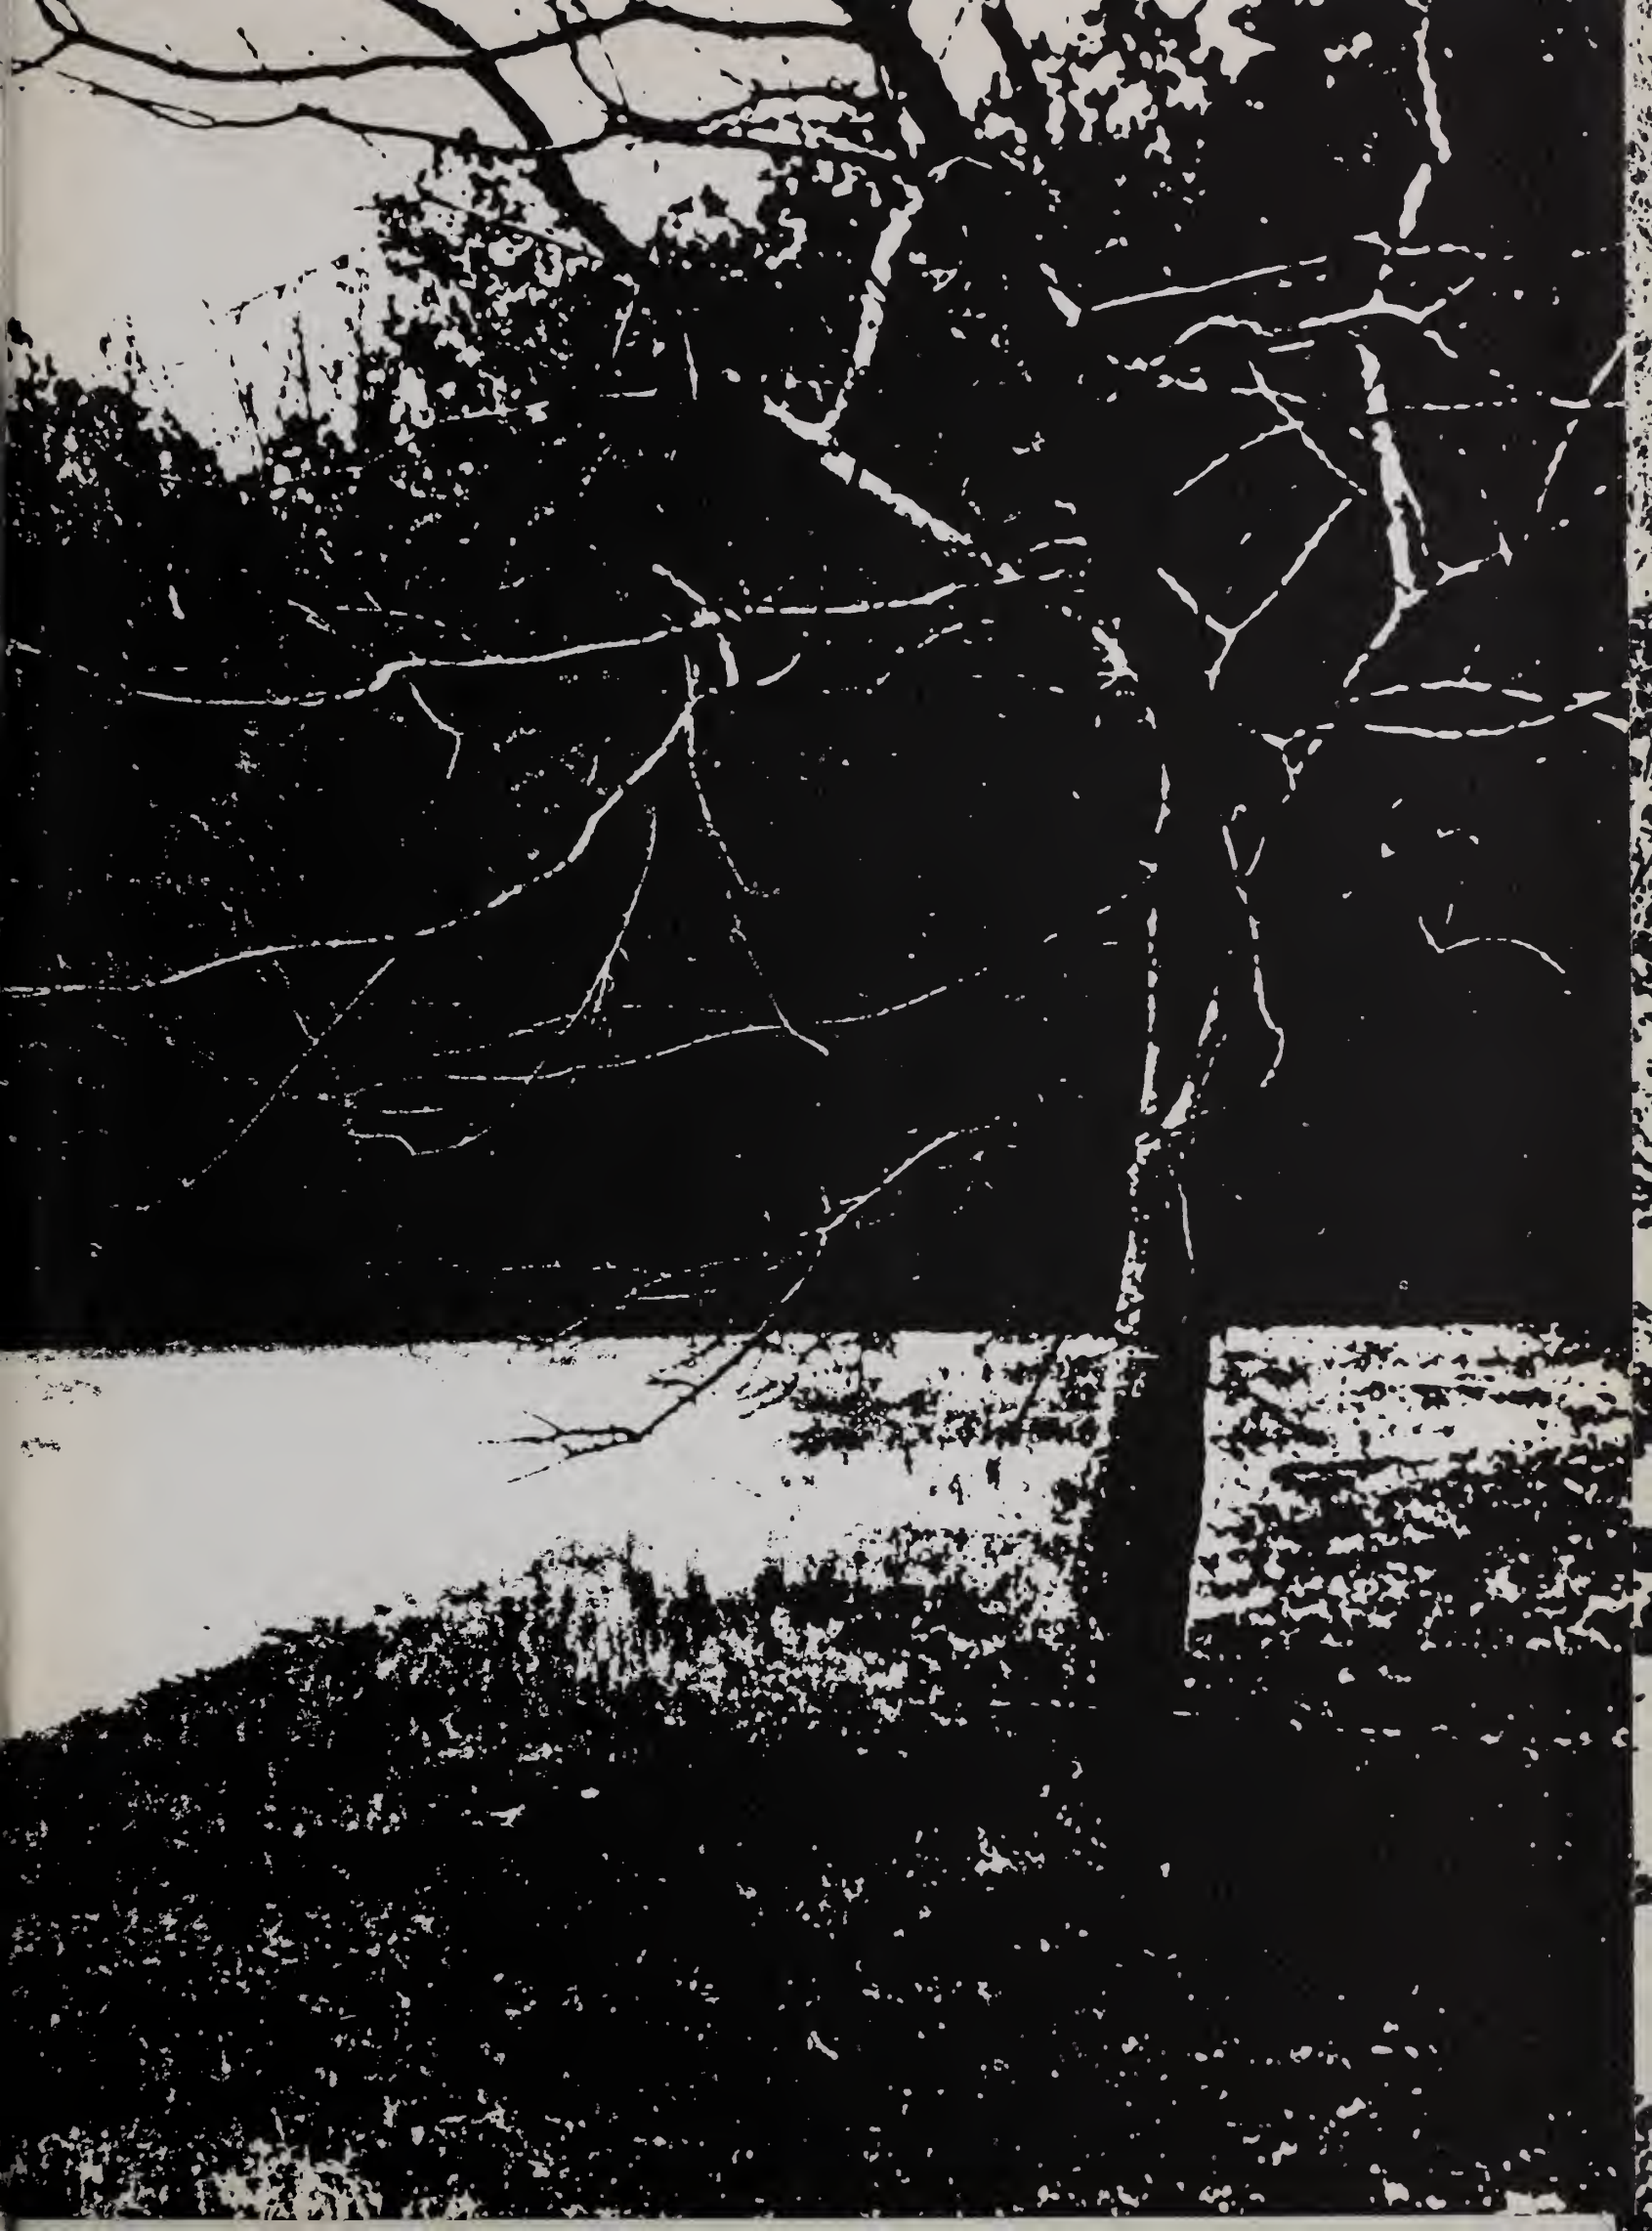

As man's world erupts in his face, he must change. He can no longer exist in an isolated shell, for the media saturate him with facts of upheaval.

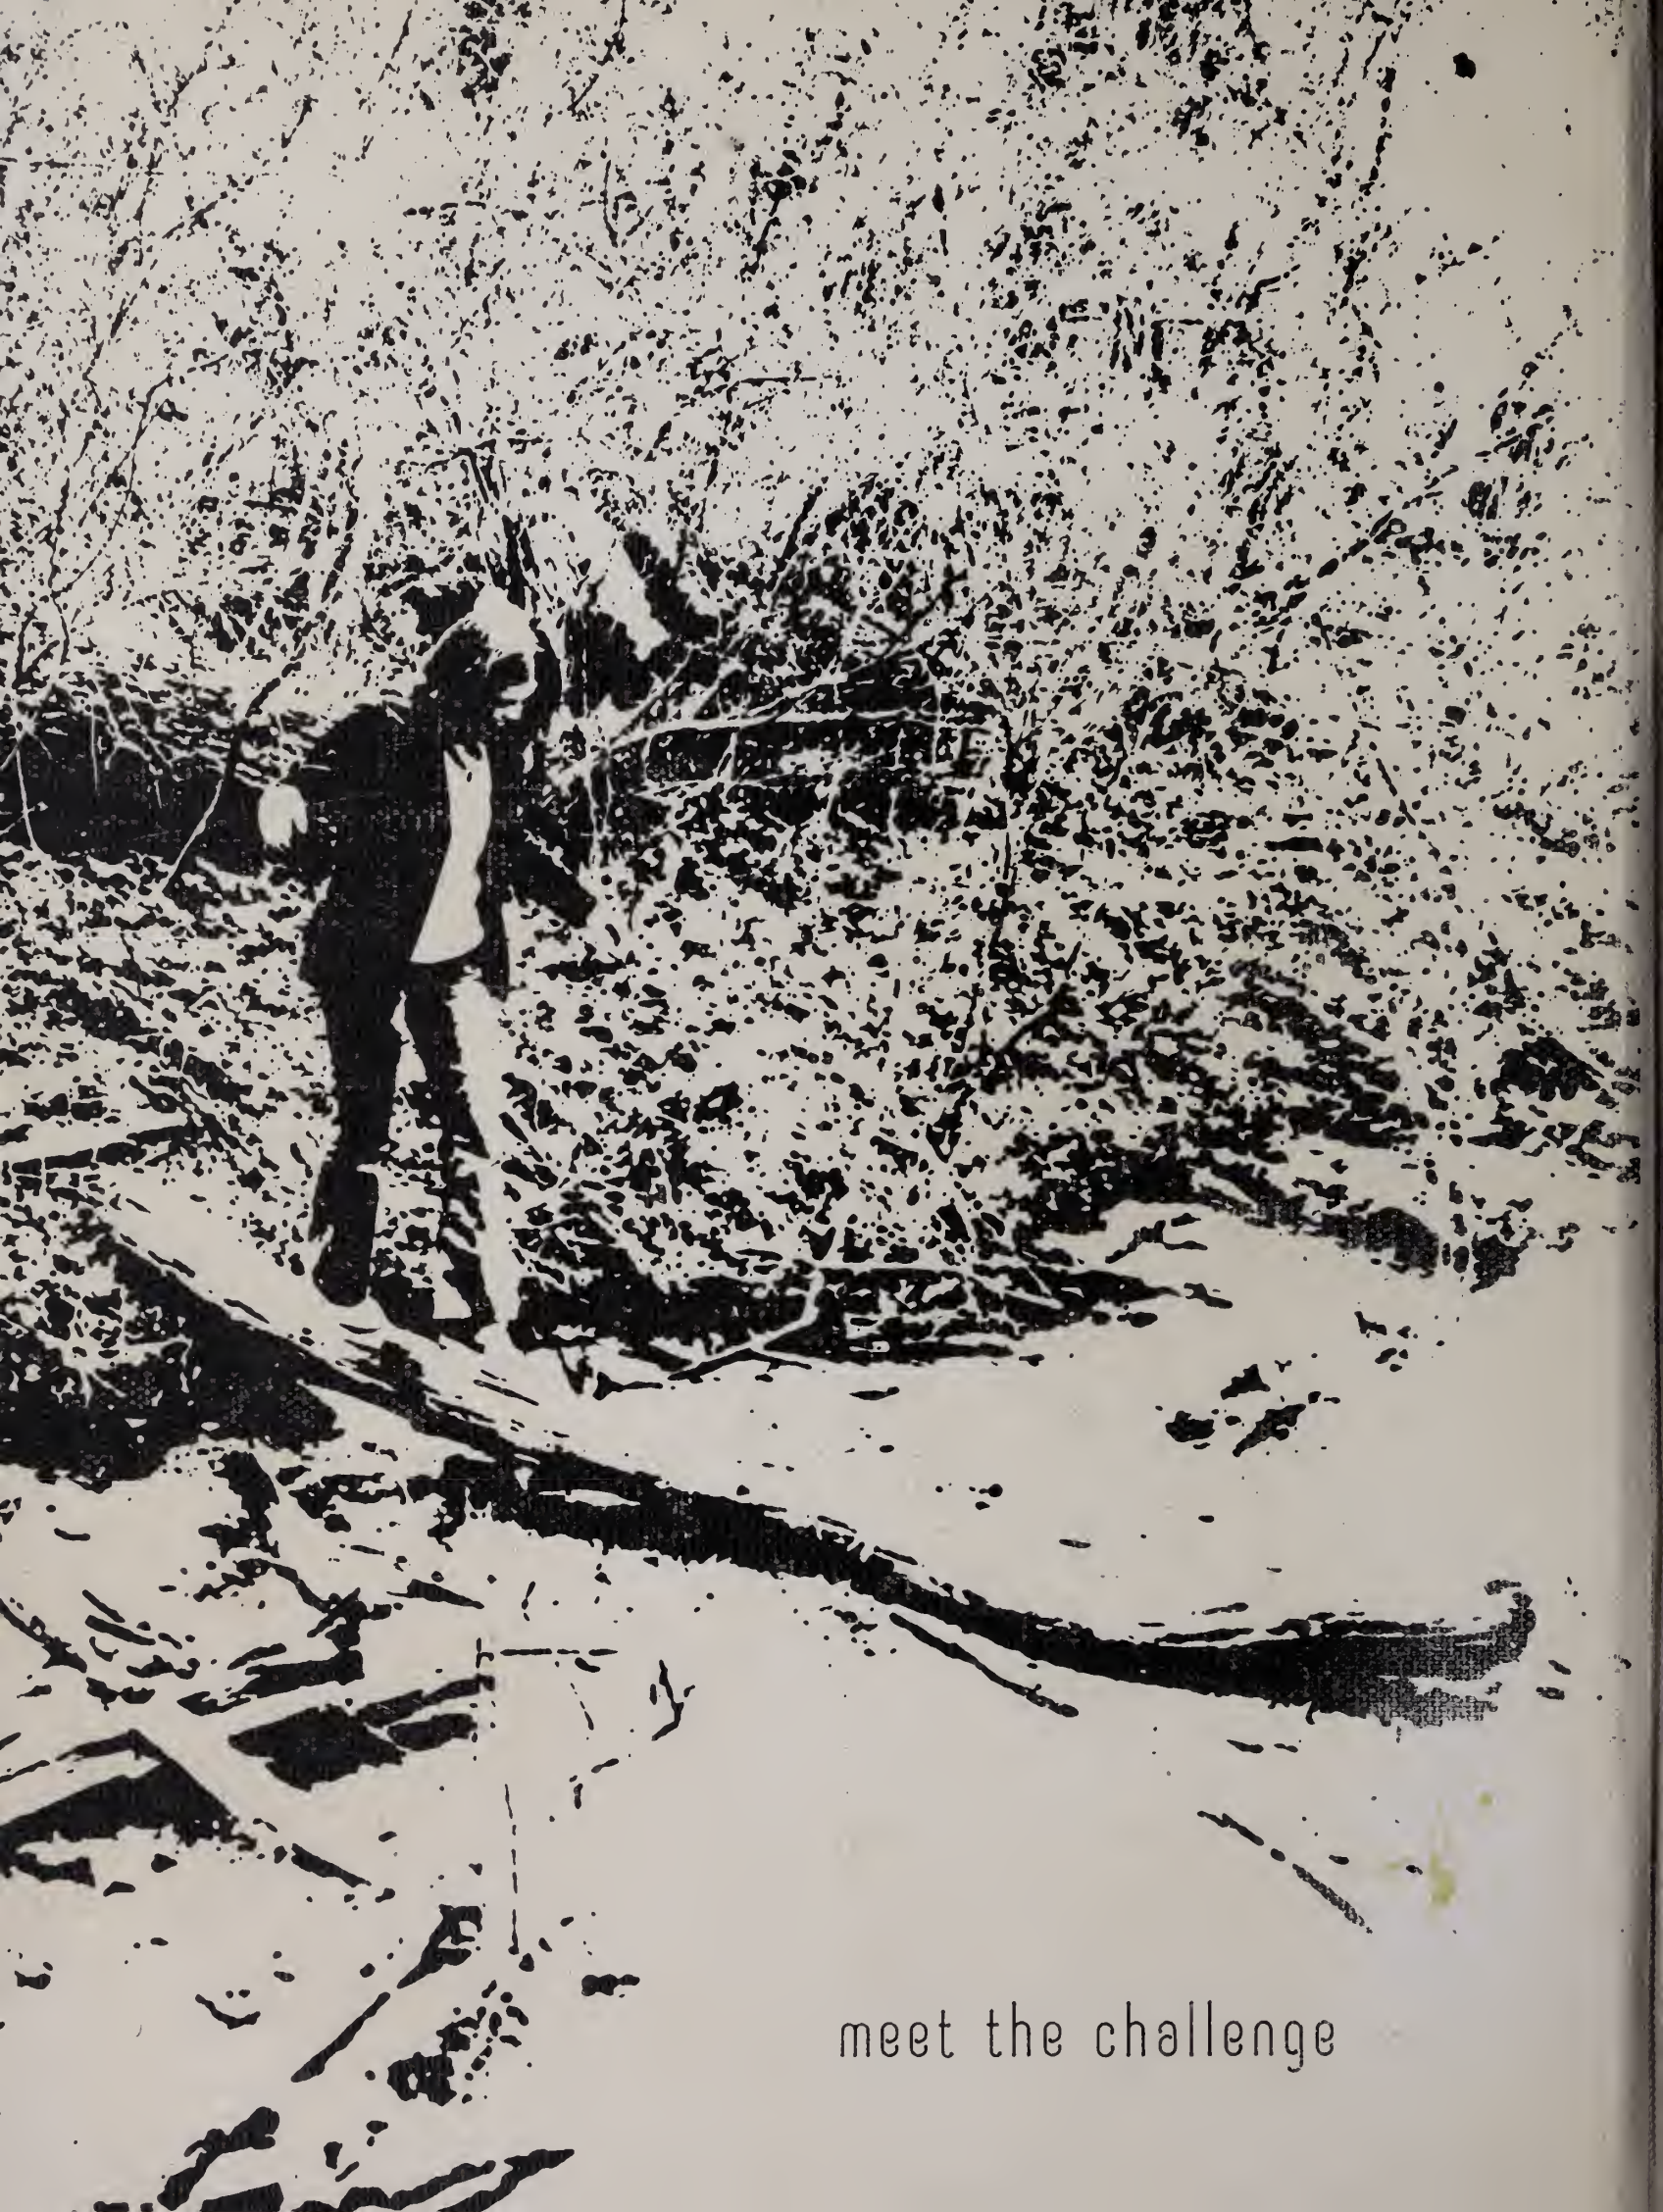

But challenged to find answers, youths explore old truths and new concepts to realize a place for themselves in the maze of an unpredictable technological society.

Through a realization of self, the young direct their unique abilities to develop a promising future of hope and opportunity for all mankind.
